Maj. Gen. Squier Shows Shortage of Personnel

Annual Report Tells of Signal Corps Activities

MAJ. GEN. GEORGE O. SQUIER, Chief Signal Officer, U.S.A., in his annual report for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1923, points to the fact that the reduction of funds and personnel has reached a point where true economy is no longer being realized.

"The various reductions in the size of the Army," he says, "have been accompanied by a corresponding reduction in the strength of the Signal Corps, although no appreciable reduction in Signal Corps activities has been possible, and, in many cases, a considerable increase in these activities is evident. The only appreciable reduction in these activities that has been made possible by the general reduction in the size of the Army has been obtained by the elimination of a few tactical units from the active list."

Gen. Squier, among other things, states that the post telephone systems are not being properly maintained, tells of the necessity for the proper maintenance and operation of the Washington-Alaska cable system, the establishment of the Army radio net and the need of radio equipment for military use.

Shortage of Personnel

In addition to the shortage of personnel for the various special activities operated by the Signal Corps, Gen. Squier states that there is a very decided shortage of commissioned and enlisted personnel for the training of the Regular Army, the National Guard, the Reserve Corps, the Reserve Officers' Training Corps and the Citizens' Military Training Camps. Other extracts from the report follow:

At the beginning of the fiscal year the actual enlisted strength of the Signal Corps was 2,633 men. This number was decreased gradually until in December of 1922 it had fallen to 2,153, or slightly below the authorized strength. Since that time the authorized strength has not been exceeded and in fact has not been approached by approximately 100 men.

The Signal Officers' Reserve Corps has shown a healthy growth during the year and there are at present 1,640 officers in the organization. The R.O.T.C. has formed a source of steady supply and it is felt that the graduates who are coming into the Signal Officers' Reserve Corps through the medium of the R.O.T.C. form a valuable and well trained addition thereto.

The financial loss to officers and men when traveling on official business has caused considerable dissatisfaction and something should be done to increase this allowance, so that the personnel will not be required to stand this loss from their personal funds. The conditions surrounding travel in Alaska are far different from those existing in the continental United States, and the allowance limits of the latter should not apply to Alaska.

Radio Nets

The steadily increasing amount of official traffic being handled by the War Department radio net, aggregating over $7,000 per month at the close of the fiscal year, has served to indicate the essential weaknesses of the system. The critical shortage of enlisted operating personnel is

Adjutant General's Report Shows Army Handicaps

PROGRESS made, despite the handicaps imposed by shortage of appropriations and reductions of both commissioned and enlisted personnel, is the story contained in the annual report of Maj. Gen. Robert C. Davis, The Adjutant General of the Army, made public last week. It covers the fiscal year ending June 30, 1923.

"The effect of the enforced reduction in the commissioned strength of the Army has been far-reaching," declares the report. "It has been found impossible to carry into anything like full effect the program for national defense included in the act of Congress approved June 4, 1920.

"The demand for instructors for Reserve Officers' Training Corps units has exceeded the existing supply. The same condition exists with reference to officers called for duty with National Guard and Organized Reserve units. It is true that the War Department has succeeded in furnishing the number of officers required for training the young men attending the Military Training Camps, but only by depriving many officers of their leaves. The instructors at civilian educational institutions suffered especially in this respect, for as soon as the academic year closed their duties at the training camps began and lasted until the schools reopened in the fall."

The post schools have also suffered. The report states:

"In the Regular Army the system of post schools for the educational and vocational training of enlisted men has been maintained under great handicaps. Due to lack of appropriations for the purpose and shortage of personnel only 20,380 students could be given instruction by the 272 officers and 702 enlisted men who taught the schools, generally in addition to their other duties."

Recruiting Question Serious

The question of recruiting is assuming serious proportions. The report states that the Army was at practically the authorized strength on June 30, 1922, but that since then enlistments and re-enlistments have failed to offset the losses. The discontinuance of the General Recruiting Service imposed another hardship.

"In view of the high rates of pay offered by industrial and commercial concerns, as compared with those provided by law for enlisted men, the problem of securing suitable enlistments in sufficient numbers became a very serious one.

"To maintain the Army at its reduced strength of 125,000 it is necessary between June 30, 1923, and Jan. 1, 1924, to enlist and re-enlist about 50,000 men, and approximately 24,000 between Jan. 1 and June 30, 1924. The 77,000 members of the Officers' Reserve Corps have been appealed to and asked that each, through his personal effort, secure one recruit for the Regular Army," the report states.

It relates how the offer of a sea voyage, via the Panama Canal to Hawaii, brought about the solution of the problem in that department, over 4,000 recruits having been secured from eastern corps areas. Another difficulty presented is covered in the following extract from the report:

"Since the close of the fiscal year another obstacle has arisen. In the act making appropriations for the War Department for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1924, the following appears:

That no part of the funds herein appropriated shall be utilized for the recruiting or enlistment . . . unless the applicant furnishes a birth certificate or the affidavit of two disinterested witnesses showing such applicant for enlistment to be 21 years of age.

"For many of the men who seek to join the Army it is very difficult if not impossible to furnish the required evidence of their age and they are prone to make no effort to obtain it. Others, plainly over 21, resent the imputation that their word is not good, and angrily give up the idea of enlistment. It matters not how mature the applicant's appearance may be, the recruiting officer has no discretion in the matter, for the proviso of law, as worded, is unqualified."

Other subjects covered deal with the training of officers in The Adjutant General's office, improvements in the Army Motion Picture Service, the use of the Army libraries, and the growth of the Officers' Reserve Corps. During the fiscal year 12,841 applicants were commissioned.

The report also shows that at present there still remain eight emergency officers in the Service. All of them are undergoing treatment for physical reconstruction.

Naval Officer to Fly Over North Pole with Amundsen

COMMANDING one of the three planes which Capt. Raold Amundsen, famous explorer, hopes to fly across the North Pole next year will be Lt. Ralph E. Davison, U.S.N., representing the Naval Bureau of Aeronautics. He was appointed for this mission on Nov. 8.

Lt. Davison was one of thirty officers who volunteered for the risky assignment when it became known that Capt. Amundsen had asked the Navy Department for a naval aviator. The request was made by H. H. Hammer, the explorer's representative in this country, who will have charge of one of the planes himself.

Each of the planes will carry two men. It was announced, with Capt. Amundsen himself in command. Lt. Davison will assist him in navigating.

The squadron of Dornier dolphin flying boats will be shipped north to Spitzbergen early in May, according to the plans as outlined. They will then be taken to the edge of the ice-pack, presumably about 450 miles from the pole.

The final flight will be made in an air line from Spitzbergen across the Pole to the vicinity of Point Barrow, Alaska. It is hoped to establish a depot of supplies of fuel and food at the Pole itself.

Lt. Davison is a graduate of the Naval Academy, class of 1916, to which he was appointed from Missouri. He served with the Atlantic Fleet during the World War and took up aviation in 1919. For the past two years he has been stationed at the Naval Air Station at Pensacola, Fla.

West Point Smoker at New York City Nov. 23

THE usual Army smoker and rally will be held at the Hotel Astor, New York city, on Friday evening, Nov. 23, from 8.30 p.m. on. It will be under the auspices of the Association of Graduates of the U.S. Military Academy, and coming at this time furnishes a pleasant evening of reunion for the many graduates, both in and out of the Service, who gather in New York to root for the Army team.

Incidentally, attendance is not limited to graduates alone, but all Army officers in active service are cordially invited to attend and to bring their guests.

An entertaining program is being arranged and suitable refreshments will be served for which a nominal charge will be made. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

In order that the committee may make adequate arrangements it is requested that a prompt reply be made to the notices sent out.

Changes Made in Constitution of Reserve Officers

State Chapters to Be Administrative Units

ALMOST a dozen changes were made in the constitution of the Reserve Officers' Association of the United States during the annual convention of the organization at Detroit, Oct. 26-28. The most important was probably the elimination of the corps area chapters for administrative purposes and the substitution of the state chapter as the administrative unit.

Other amendments to the constitution included one which made permanent the headquarters of the organization, recently established in Washington, and another which increased the annual dues of members from 50 cents to $1.

It was provided that the retiring national president shall be a member of the National Council for the following year.

Provisions were made for the distribution of delegates to the national convention by the National Council, 25 of them being awarded to each corps area and 25 alternates provided for. An equal number of delegates were allowed the various states in each corps area, the distribution to be made by the National Council.

Appointment of Delegates

The committee which was formed for the purpose of organizing the Reserve Officers' Association had decided that the most equitable method to insure the appointment of delegates who were really Reserve officers of good standing in their own community to the first convention was to request the War Department to authorize the chiefs of staff of the corps area to appoint them.

At the time the constitution was discussed at the first convention the point was made that probably at the end of the first year the society would not be sufficiently organized to insure all corps area conventions being held all over the United States for the purpose of electing delegates.

To take care of this, a provision was inserted in the constitution that should vacancies exist for the second convention they would be filled by appointment by the chiefs of staff of the corps areas. It was generally understood at this time that this would be regarded as a temporary measure, gradually to be eliminated as the society progressed and found the proper means of functioning, including election of its own delegates for the second convention, recently held at Detroit.

In a number of corps areas no corps area conventions were held, but state conventions were held. Where state conventions picked delegates they were received. Where no corps area nor state convention was held the delegates were picked by the corps area chiefs of staff.

State association conventions to choose delegates were provided for. They are to be held thirty days before the national convention.

It was provided that state and local associations may levy and collect additional dues to meet their own local needs, and that a delegate to the national convention must prove that he is a Reserve officer in good standing by filing a receipt from his treasurer with his credentials.

The national secretary, it was specified, shall be appointed by the national president with the approval of the National Council.

Disbursing Officers Conference U.S.A., Opens

THE conference of the United States property and disbursing officers was opened by the Secretary of War Nov. 15 in Washington, the opening meeting being held in the auditorium of the Interior Department. Following the Secretary of War addresses were made by Maj. Gen. John F. Hines, Deputy Chief of Staff, and Maj. Gen. George C. Rickards, Chief of the Militia Bureau. Besides the sixty-odd duly assigned delegates from the various corps areas and states there were present over two score officers from the General Staff, Supply, and other War Department branches who will assist in the conference. President Coolidge, on Nov. 21, will receive those attending the conference.

Following the address of Gen. Rickards, Col. E. J. Williams outlined the purposes of the meeting, and made some brief announcements. Col. Williams was followed by Brig. Gen. Stuart Heintzelman, Assistant Chief of Staff, who spoke on the functions of G-4, W.D.G.S., with regard to the supply and finance of the National Guard. Brig. Gen. Kenzie W. Walker, Chief of Finance, then addressed the conference on the functions of the Finance Department relative to the National Guard, and the subject of Capt. George H. Hahn, Q.M.C., was the same, but relating to the Quartermaster Corps.

Addresses were made Nov. 16 by Col. Samuel Hof, Ord. Dept., on Ordnance Department functions with the Guard; Mr. Roger I. Moffett, general accounting officer, spoke on the General Accounting Office with regard to expenditures of Militia Bureau funds; while Col. C. C. Hammond, on duty in the Militia Bureau, covered the functions of the bureau relative to the supply and finance of the National Guard. Other speakers were Lt. Col. LeRoy Pearson, P. & D.O., of Michigan; Lt. Col. M. R. Hilgard, G.S.; Maj. Walter E. Prosser, S.C., and Maj. H. J. Wild, C.E. Maj. Prosser and Wild spoke on the functions of their respective branches with regard to the National Guard.

Addresses on Nov. 17 were to be made by Brig. Gen. Amos A. Fries, Chief of Chemical Warfare Service; Maj. E. C. Jones, M.D., and Capt. Shiras A. Blair, A.S., on matters pertaining to their arms of the Service with respect to the National Guard. Col. Ola W. Bell, Cav., O.I.C.N.G.A., 3d Corps Area, spoke on the functions of officers in charge of National Guard affairs. As the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL went to press the conference was divided into working committees who will hold their committee conferences on matters assigned to them and submit their committee reports to the general conference for approval. Maj. George R. Harrison is secretary of the conference.

Reunion Class 1921, U.S.M.A. at New York City Nov. 23

THE class of 1921, U.S.M.A. (Nov. 1, 1918), will hold its five-year reunion dinner at the Café Boulevard, 41st street and Broadway, New York city, at 7.30 p. m. on Nov. 23, the evening preceding the Army-Navy game.

The committee in charge of the dinner requests that all members of the class who plan to attend the dinner send their names at once to Lt. Carlisle Allan, at West Point, N.Y.

Submarine O-5 Rammed in Limon Bay

THE U.S. submarine O-5 was rammed and sunk by the United Fruit steamer Abangarez on the morning of Oct. 28 in Limon Bay, on the Atlantic entrance to the Panama Canal. The September Navy Directory gives Lt. H. Avery as commanding the O-5.

At the time she went down five men of her crew were reported missing, but later two of them were rescued. The missing as at first reported were the following:

Lawrence Brown, chief electrician's mate; Clyde E. Hughes, motor machinist's mate, first class; Henry Breault, torpedo man of second class; Thomas T. Metzler, fireman, first class; Fred C. Smith, mess attendant, first class.

Relief vessels were at once dispatched from the base at Coco Solo to the wreck and diving operations started, to enable the submarine to be raised. These were successful and at 1 p. m., Oct. 29, the O-5 was brought to the surface, and Lawrence Brown, chief electrician's mate, and Henry Breault, a torpedo man, were rescued alive from the hulk and taken to the Colon hospital. No trace was found of the other three missing men.

No details of the sinking of the submarine had been given out by the Navy Department up to Nov. 15, the time the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL went to press.

Three Service Leaders Address Radio Audience

SPEAKING to the vast audience of radio listeners from station WJZ, Aeolian Hall, New York city, three leaders of the Services commemorated Armistice Day and the anniversary of the founding of the Marine Corps on Nov. 11. They were Maj. Gen. John L. Hines, Deputy Chief of Staff of the Army; Rear Adm. W. R. Shoemaker, head of the War Plans Division of the Navy, and Paymaster Gen. George Richards of the Marine Corps.

Gen. Hines, speaking first, recalled his experiences on the first Armistice Day to the audience of radio listeners and summed up its meaning as tending to the perpetuation of the principles for which our soldiers fought. He strongly affirmed the value of national training as the surest cure for war and as the means of preserving national security.

The Communications Service of the Navy was stressed by Adm. Shoemaker, who said that the diplomatic service was the first line of defense and the Navy the second. He showed how the Navy takes up its duties when the first line fails.

A complete outline of the history of the U.S. Marine Corps, the oldest branch of our Service, was given by Gen. Richards in his address. He told of its organization Nov. 10, 1775, and of the wide range of duties it has performed since then.

Linking his subject up with Armistice Day, the general told of the price which the Marine Corps regiments, who participated in action in France, paid for their activities.

During the evening the speakers were the guests of Maj. Gen. J. G. Harbord, U. S.A., former commanding general of the 2d Division and president of the Radio Corporation of America. He entertained them at a dinner, at which the other guests were former Assistant Secretary of War Wainwright and Brig. Gen. Henry J. Reilly, O.R.C.

Baron de Cartier Made Honorary Officer, 106th N.Y.

HIS Excellency Baron de Cartier de Marchienne, Belgian Ambassador to the United States, who reviewed the 106th Infantry, N.Y.N.G., Col. Thomas Fairseris, in the armory in Brooklyn, N.Y., on Nov. 10, received a splendid welcome and also witnessed an exceptionally fine military display. The event was among the most notable ever given in Brooklyn. At an elaborate dinner at the Brooklyn Club, given by Col. Fairseris and the officers of the 106th in his honor, and which was attended by many well-known officers and civilians, the Baron made a ringing speech in praise of the valor of the 106th Infantry and other American troops on the battle front in Belgium.

In the course of his remarks touching on the present troubles in Germany he stated that while no vindictive feeling exists toward the conquered foe there is a solemn determination that the great objects for which the war was fought must be achieved.

In honor of the occasion, the Baron was made an honorary captain on the staff of Col. Fairseris, commanding the 106th. The latter, in conferring the honor, declared that if it were possible for all the men of the 106th, both living and dead, to be present, they would all stand back of him in conferring the honor on the Ambassador for "the brave little country in Europe." Mr. Charles J. Edwards, president of the Brooklyn Club, and Maj. Gen. Charles W. Berry, commanding the New York National Guard, made interesting remarks supplementary to those of the colonel.

Baron de Cartier, for the review at the armory which followed the dinner, had an honorary staff consisting of Col. William A. Taylor, who was in command of the 106th in Belgium; Col. J. A. S. Munday, adjutant 27th Division; Maj. Frank I. Hanscom, and Capt. Harry Fields and M. J. A. Wilson.

The armory was jammed with spectators, who accorded the Baron an ovation, while the band of the regiment played the national anthem of Belgium as he arrived at the reviewing stand. The regiment never looked better and it performed the ceremonies of review and parade and executed a regimental drill in close order in splendid style, fully maintaining its reputation as being among the best regiments in the National Guard.

A memorable incident of the review was when Baron de Cartier pinned on the coat of Gen. Berry, N.Y.N.G., and Maj. Frank C. Vincent of the 106th, and three privates of the regiment, the Belgian Croix de Guerre, with palm, for conspicuous gallantry on the battlefield. After the passage the Baron asked that the regiment mass in a square about him, and he then congratulated them on their fine appearance. The Baron then called upon everyone in the great audience to stand up and give three cheers for the men of the 106th, which were given with great enthusiasm.

Recommendations of Recent Meeting of N.G. Association

IN addition to the strong resolutions which were adopted at the recent annual meeting of the National Guard Association of the United States at Denver, Colo., the association passed eight recommendations, as follows:

Eliminate provision of Sec. 110, National Defense act, that enlisted men must attend sixty per cent. of all drills ordered for their organizations, and authorize armory drill pay for all drills attended.

That commissioned personnel of Howitzer Company, Inf. Regt., and Headquarters Battery, Art. Regt., be increased by one second lieutenant each.

Authorize one or more caretakers for each Coast Artillery armory where expensive equipment has been installed.

Make provision for visits of inspection by unit commanders whose commands are made up of troops of two or more states, to each camp where troops of their commands are in training.

To provide for "dropping allowance" for clothing and quartermaster supplies, to be fixed by the Secretary of War at not less than one-fourth of the value of annual clothing allowance for enlisted men of the Regular Army.

To authorize a caretaker for each organization whose maintenance strength is thirty-five or more enlisted men and which is not now provided with one or more caretakers.

To authorize $240 administrative pay for regimental adjutants.

To authorize enlisted men to drill with organizations other than their own.

Indiana National Guard Honors Maj. A. T. Rich

IN honor of Maj. Albert T. Rich, Inf., U. S.A., who has been the instructor for the Indiana National Guard for the past three years, the name of the training ground for the Indiana state soldiers at Frankfort, Ind., has been changed to "Camp Albert T. Rich." This is a fitting tribute to Maj. Rich, who through his tireless efforts has brought up the efficiency of the various National Guard units of this state.

Camp Rich will be enlarged so as to include twenty more targets in the layout of the range and also a complete machine gun range. It is stated that the great success of the 151st Infantry, which regiments won the state company team match, the state pistol team match and the state rifle match, was due to the training which was given the members of the team at the Frankfort range.

In addition to the improvements which will be made to the range, the construction of two barrack buildings and an administration building have been planned.

U.S. Navy Relief Ball, Washington, Nov. 29

MRS. COOLIDGE has given her name to head the list of patronesses for the Navy Relief ball on Thanksgiving night (Nov. 29) at the New Willard Hotel, Washington. Under propitious circumstances this ball is always one attended by the President and the First Lady of the land. This year, as usual, a box will be placed at the disposal of the White House. The ball is given annually to raise funds for the relief of the needy families of the Navy and Marine Corps and is the only appeal ever made to the public.

The ball is of particular interest to Service people, but it also attracts a large number of civilians, and invitations have been sent to all the naval attaches of foreign countries. Rear Adm. Andrew T. Long, U.S.A., will head the men's committee, with Capt. Charles R. Train, U.S.N., as his assistant, and Miss Carolyn Nash is chairman of the girls' floor committee. Capt. Adolphus Andrews, U.S.N., aid to the President, will make the introductions.

Notables Attend Military Dinner on Armistice Day

THE annual Armistice dinner of the International Officers was held at the Army and Navy Club, New York city, on Nov. 12, and was attended by 200 prominent and representative men in allied, diplomatic, military and business circles.

At the speakers' table were Col. Franklin Q. Brown, president of the Army and Navy Club, presiding officer; Sir Harry Armstrong, British Consul General; Dr. Stefan Grotowski, Polish Consul General; Maj. Gen. Robert Lee Bullard, U.S.A.; Capt. J. D. Wainwright, U.S.N.; Dr. T. Karovitch, Consul General of the Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes; Dr. B. Prusik, Czechoslovak Consul General; Rear Adm. Bradley A. Fiske, U.S.N., retired; Mr. Bouzet, French Consul; Mr. J. Ancha, Acting Japanese Consul General; Col. V. Di Bernezzo, Italian military attaché; Capt. F. L. Tottenham, British naval attaché; Dr. Paul Rossi, Italian Vice Consul; Mr. Charles Hallaert, Belgian Vice Consul; Brig. Gen. John Ross Delafield, president of the Reserve Officers' Association of the United States, and Maj. R. Iremescu of Rumania.

The speeches of the guests of honor were broadcast by station WJZ under the auspices of the Radio Corporation of America, of which Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord, U.S.A., retired, is president.

Among those present at the dinner were Maj. Terry Allen, Lt. F. S. Appleby, Gen. H. S. Borden, Gen. O. B. Bridgman, Col. George W. Burleigh, Maj. William M. Chadbourne, Mr. Robert Grier Cooke, Gen. W. A. Crozier, Hon. Fred Cunliffe-Owen, Col. John F. Daniell, Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord, Gen. Samuel McRoberts, Hon. S. Stanwood Menken, Hon. Frank D. Payver, Col. Charles H. Peck, Mr. James F. Pershing, Gen. Palmer E. Pierce, Gen. James Robb, Dr. Albert Shaw, Mr. Elmer A. Sperry, Maj. A. C. Vandiver, Hon. Martin Vogel, Gen. DeWitt C. Weld, jr., and Mr. B. L. Winchell.

Supporting an Adequate National Defense

THE Chicago Tribune and the Waukegan (Ill.) Sun are among the patriotic newspapers that support an adequate national defense.

In speaking editorially on Navy Day, in its issue of Oct. 26, the Chicago Tribune said, in part:

"It is not, we believe, an approved policy of the majority of American citizens to have our Navy weakened. It is an organization of supreme importance to our national peace, safety, power, and prosperity, and the American people recognize it as such. When they agreed to make it no better than that of Great Britain, their idea was not to have it made worse.

"Congress, which must make the appropriations, has seemed to be included to make it worse. The public must correct that attitude. It is the purpose of Navy Day to bring about such correction.

The Waukegan Sun in its issue of Oct. 27, in an editorial says, in part:

"No one wishes to see our country plunged into another devastating war that will mean the sacrifice of untold life and treasure. This desirable and necessary end, however, can only be attained by an intelligent appreciation of the naval situation by the citizens and voters, and their forceful endorsement of an adequate Navy communicated to their Senators and Representatives in Congress."

most prominent, making impossible the maintenance of twenty-four-hour service at several of the most important stations of the War Department net.

The handling of this large amount of traffic has also brought to light certain inadequacies in radio plants which could not be foreseen when the War Department radio net was initially established. These weaknesses are, to a large extent, being rectified.

The total traffic handled by the War Department radio net and corps area radio nets for the fiscal year amounted to $65,701.65. Since the cost of operation of these stations is properly chargeable to War Insurance the radio traffic handled represents in effect a clear saving of this amount to the government.

THE THREE "AGES" OF SHOEMAKING

For centuries and centuries the method of making footwear did not vary. A mural painting discovered in the ruins of ancient Thebes shows Egyptian sandal-makers at work after the manner of the early New England cobblers. Until a few generations ago boots and shoes were made entirely by hand, and wholly by the individual craftsman. This was the first "age" of shoemaking.

In the Eighteenth Century small domestic shoe-shops arose, and groups of men and women, in shops and homes, made the footwear of the people, the work being more or less divided, but all still done by hand. This was the second "age".

About the middle of the Nineteenth Century the factory system developed and the introduction of shoe machinery began, until to-day in no field of manufacture has greater progress been made or more efficiency been attained through machinery. This is the third "age".

There is a machine now available for practically every process in the making of shoes. And, by the way, there are one hundred and forty different operations in the making of a Goodyear Welt Shoe, universally recognized as without a peer in those qualities which make a shoe desirable,—comfort, durability, appearance.

UNITED SHOE MACHINERY CORPORATION

Special Washington Service News Letter

By E. B. Johns

BY postponing the holding of the party caucus from March until the first of December, the Republican leaders are confident that they have stabilized the situation so that they can elect a Speaker and a Leader without serious friction. It is stated that the situation from a Republican standpoint in the House is improving every day. This result has been brought about through numerous conferences that have taken place in the past three weeks.

It is now asserted that Speaker Gillett will have no opposition in the Republican caucus. Representative Nicholas Longworth of Ohio does not occupy quite as strong a position in the race for Republican leadership, but it is admitted that his chances have been improving every day since Congress adjourned.

It is possible that before this appears in print Representative Graham of Illinois, who has been spoken of as Mr. Longworth's opponent, will announce that he is not a candidate. Mr. Graham has been urged to get into the race actively, but he has never announced his candidacy, although there is no doubt that he would accept if it were tendered him. He might become an active candidate if he did not think that it would endanger the success of the Republican party in the House during the next Congress.

Col. John Q. Tilson of Connecticut, a former National Guardsman and formerly a member of the Committee on Military Affairs, is being very favorably discussed for Republican leader by those opposed to Mr. Longworth. Strange as it may seem, the radical group would prefer Col. Tilson to Mr. Longworth. If Col. Tilson would become a candidate, despite the fact that he comes from New England, the middle western radicals would line up for him and he would at least give Mr. Longworth a very close race.

Radicalism Losing Power

THE situation in the House for the Republicans has improved, owing to the disintegration of the radical group. At the close of last session the Nelson-Cooper-Frear combination, which represents La Folletteism in the House, were able to muster about sixty-three members. After Congress adjourned they held a caucus which was attended by forty or fifty members. Aside from those who attended they received letters from others, so that their strength was estimated at sixty-three. At present there are only fifteen members who are adhering to the radical group and they are anxiously searching about for recruits.

The trouble with the radical group has been that there have been too many leaders in it. Very few of them have been willing to follow a leader. However, with the small margin of control held by the Republicans the regular leaders are showing a disposition to consult the radicals.

It comes from the most reliable source that the radical group will enter the caucus if certain concessions are made to it. Originally they started out to elect a Speaker and a Leader, but now it is understood that they are demanding recognition in the selection of members for the important committees.

It is stated that they will demand a majority of the Republican membership of the powerful Committee on Rules, and will strive hard for increased membership on the Committees on Appropriations, Military Affairs and Naval Affairs.

Filling Committee Vacancies

WITH this condition existing in the Republican membership of the House it is a matter of wild speculation as to just who will be selected to fill the vacancies on the War and Navy Department sub-committees of the Committee on Appropriations. It will not be known until the Republican caucus is held just what concessions the Republican leaders will be compelled to make to the radicals.

Representative Anthony, according to present state, will continue as chairman of the War Department sub-committee of the Committee on Appropriations. There are two vacancies on that committee that have not been filled and will not be until the Republican leader of the House is elected. There are eleven vacancies on the Republican side of the Committee on Appropriations. This is not quite half the present Republican membership, which in the last House was twenty-three. The Republican quota may be cut down, which adds to the uncertainty of the situation.

Representative French of Idaho has really been installed as chairman of the Navy Department sub-committee of the Committee on Appropriations, although he will not be formally selected until Congress convenes. Who will be the other members of this committee will not be determined until the leader has been selected and numerous other matters in the organization of the House are adjusted.

Curiously enough, both Chairman Kahn of the House Committee on Military Affairs and Chairman Butler of the House Committee on Naval Affairs have been in poor health during the past year or so. It was feared by the Republican leaders that neither of them would be physically fit to assume the duties of these important posts in the organization of the House during the next Congress.

Chairman Kahn has never fully recovered from the effects of the war, when he, under a Democratic administration, carried the burden of the Administration's legislative program. Chairman Butler, during the last Congress, was absent from Washington for some time on account of illness.

Under these conditions there has been considerable discussion as to who would be chairman of the House Military and Naval committees. However, both Mr. Kahn and Mr. Butler, it is stated, will be back in Washington very much improved in health due to their long period of rest and, as a consequence, there is not now any discussion of a change in the chairmanship in either committee.

The Committee Vacancies

THERE are, however, vacancies on both committees. From the Military Committee, former Representative Greene of Vermont has been elevated to the Senate, and it is generally assumed will be selected as a member of the Senate Military Committee. Representatives Parker of New Jersey, Crago of Pennsylvania, Fields of Kentucky and Stoll of South Carolina will not be members of the next House. Percy Quinn of Mississippi, one of the richest drops of humor in the House, becomes the ranking member on the Democratic side of the Committee on Military Affairs.

The Naval Committee loses seven members, and, unfortunately, they were all active in naval affairs. They are Representatives Hicks of New York, McArthur of Oregon, Kline of New York, Kraus of Indiana, McPherson of Missouri, Codd of Michigan and Riordan of New York. Mr. Riordan died after many years of splendid and active service in the House.

In the Senate, of course, Senator Wadsworth of New York continues as chairman of the Military Affairs Committee, and Senator Hale of Maine has been selected as chairman of the Naval Affairs Committee. He takes the post that was formerly held by his distinguished father, who was one of the pioneers in building up the Navy.

Legislation for the Army

AS the War Department will ask for virtually nothing for the Regular Army, its officers and enlisted men will not be disappointed in the next session of Congress. Some of the radicals and pacifists may bark about a reduction in the strength of the Regular Army, but it will amount to about as much as a canine's baying at the moon. There is no popular support for a further reduction in the strength of the Army. Especially is this true now, when the people are reading the reports of the trouble in Europe.

In some quarters it is believed that in spite of the talk of economy a drive supported by the national defense organizations for an increase in the strength of the Regular Army could be put through Congress. There is no doubt that it will have the support of the National Guard, Reserve Officers' and Military Training Camps associations and those who attended the C.M.T.C. if the Department submitted a moderate increase. These patriotic men who attended last summer's training camps are fully awakened to the needs of an increase in the strength of the Regular Establishment.

Before the appropriation bill becomes a law the needs of the National Guard will be given serious consideration. The National Guard may not get all that it needs, but it is believed that it will get an increase over last year.

The Organized Reserves and the Officers' Reserve Corps may as well be advised that they must make another fight for existence.

The Reserve Officers' Association may as well prepare for a fight for the maintenance of Organized Reserve headquarters. The same element in the House that attempted to destroy the Organized Reserve system in the last Congress will be active again this winter. It will not be safe for the Reserve officers to take anything for granted, and it is not now too early for the association to become active in an effort to put through its program.

Legislation for the Non-Coms.

LEGISLATION asking for additional non-commissioned officers for the Regular Army will again be sent to Congress next session. This bill was formerly referred to as a bill to prevent demotion of non-commissioned officers. Such a designation was rather unfortunate, as the real purpose of it was to provide Regular non-commissioned officers for duty with the National Guard, R.O.T.C. and Organized Reserves. While the bill will result in the deserved promotion of Regular non-commissioned officers, the real benefit of the legislation will go to the junior components of the Army of the United States. The War Department therefore is not really asking anything for the Regular Establishment in this bill as it will be submitted. It is understood that it will be revised and may be of a broader character than when it was originally introduced.

Navy Building Program

THE storm center of the discussion of the Navy legislation in Congress this session will be the new ships which the Secretary of the Navy has announced in his program. Naturally, the pacifists and economists will center their attack upon the Secretary's proposal for the authorization of the new scout cruisers, gunboats and submarines.

As announced in this paper Nov. 10, the Budget will carry three additional submarines which were authorized by the 1916 program. The Secretary, it is understood, wanted to include the remaining six which were authorized by the 1916 program, but the Director of the Budget interposed his opposition. He was opposed to any new ships in the Budget and the three submarines represent a compromise. The other new ships must be authorized by a bill reported from the Naval Committee.

Navy and Marine Corps Personnel

THE Woods Running Mate Personnel bill will doubtless go to Congress with a strong endorsement of the Secretary of the Navy. This bill has reached the Secretary and is now being considered in his council of advisers. It is hoped to make it public next week, although I hesitate to make even this qualified prediction, as the measure has struck so many snags during its consideration in the Department which have resulted in the postponement of its publication. This measure will go to Congress as a separate bill.

And the Omnibus Personnel bill will again go to Congress for what is hoped will be a prayerful consideration. The most important feature of this bill will be the Marine Corps personnel bill, which passed the House last session as a separate measure. The Department has not yet worked out all of the provisions for the Omnibus bill.

A second Omnibus bill authorizing the sale of certain naval property and the purchase of other property is being prepared in the Department. This real estate omnibus bill is loaded with all sorts of possibilities in the way of naval station controversies. It is stated that the bill will follow the general policy for shore stations outlined in the report of the Rodman board, which reported to the Department about a year ago.

Naval Reserves

AFTER the Secretary's council has disposed of the Woods Running Mate bill it will take up the Naval Reserve bill. This bill is apt to have a stormy time in Congress, as it contains some provisions which are objectionable to the members of the old Naval Reserve Force. The bill's provision for a uniform allowance for Naval Reserve officers has already provoked a growl among some of the economists in Congress. They fear that if this is adopted for the Naval Reserve officers it will be extended to the Reserve officers of the Army. It would not be such a large item for the Navy, but it would mean quite a large increase for the Army.

Correcting the Comptroller

THERE will also be a bill submitted for the correction of the Comptroller's decisions. It will cover the six Services, as the Pay act does, and may develop into as big an issue as the original act. The Comptroller General can be depended upon to oppose it. It is believed that the Comptroller General will take refuge behind the Budget act. The Budget act created his office and he is doing his work under the guise of the economy of the Budget. The anti-Army and Navy bloc in Congress will rally to his support. However, when the inconsistencies of his decisions are shown up in Congress the Comptroller General will be in need of some very powerful champions.

Navy's Winter Maneuvers

ADMIRAL ROBERT E. COONTZ, commander-in-chief of the United States Fleet, is expected in Washington in a few days to discuss with the Secretary of the Navy, the Chief of Naval Operations and other officers on duty at the Department the plans for this winter's joint maneuvers. On Oct. 19, in the Seattle, Adm. Coontz left San Francisco and stopped at Balboa, where he discussed with the Army officers the plans for the joint Army and Navy maneuvers at the Canal. He left Colon on Nov. 5 and arrived on Nov. 7 at Culebra, where he inspected the islands and the anchorage for the fleet which will be mobilized there this winter. The Seattle will remain at New York Navy Yard about two months for an extensive overhaul of the machinery. Meanwhile, Adm. Coontz, with the heads of the War and Navy Departments, will work on the plans for the maneuvers. He will probably spend considerable time in Washington.

Under the program as has been arranged by Adm. Coontz, the Scouting Fleet, the Control Force, the Battle Fleet and the Fleet Base Force will leave their home yards on Jan. 4 and proceed to the Canal Zone. On the way south the Battle Fleet and the Fleet Base Force will conduct strategic exercises, reaching Balboa about Jan. 16. The Scouting Fleet and the Control Force, with the Air Forces from both coasts, will be due at the Canal Zone about the same time. Until Jan. 23, the United States Fleet will conduct joint exercises with the Army stationed on the Canal. Just what this program will be has not been announced, excepting that it is to be radically different from that which took place last year.

The entire United States Fleet will leave Colon on Jan. 23 and conduct strategic exercises on the way up to Culebra. The Fleet will be based on Culebra for two weeks, during which tactical exercises will be conducted. This will be followed by two weeks of conferences and athletic exercises ashore. After this, the Fleet will be dispersed for two weeks' shore leave. Although it has not been decided, in all probability the Battleship Fleet will visit New York, where its crew will be given liberty ashore. The other ships will be sent to various southern ports in this country and South America. An effort will be made to arrange this schedule so as to give officers and men an opportunity to visit ports at which they have not called in recent years.

After two weeks' holiday the U.S. Fleet will again be mobilized for two more weeks of tactical exercises at Culebra. The Fleet will be demobilized on or about April 10. The Battle Fleet will proceed to the Pacific and the Scouting Fleet will proceed to southern waters for gunnery exercises.

An effort is to be made to include as many of the new scout cruisers in the mobilization as possible. The Bureau of Navigation feels confident now that the Richmond, Omaha and Milwaukee will be able to join the Fleet. There is a prospect of including the Detroit and another of the scout cruisers, as the Navy Department is anxious to observe how the new scout cruisers fit into the organization of the Fleet.

The Air Service expects to furnish a larger force of planes for the exercises than at any time in the history of the Fleet. This is going to be one of the most important features of the maneuvers. A larger force of Marines will be with the Fleet than at any previous maneuver. Part of the Marines will go with the Fleet to the Canal Zone, while the remainder will join it at Culebra. This has not been arranged.

Army Captain Foresees a Bitter Battle with the Navy

By DENNIS T. MULLIGAN, CAPTAIN ARMY TEAM

THE Army eleven does not labor under any delusions regarding the approaching contest with our old rivals from the Naval Academy. We realize that this is going to be a bitter battle, and that we must overcome some very stiff opposition if we are to repeat our victory of last season.

Like the Navy, we have suffered some serious setbacks this year, but they have served only to inspire us to further efforts. We will enter the field, spurred to an attitude of desperation, and will do our very best to come through in the way that we know the Service expects us to do.

The Army is going to play the best football it can, and, while we do not discount the strength of the Navy, we think and hope that it will be good enough to win.

The series stands twelve all. Army wants the lead and we are going after it—hard.

Army Conquers Fighting Arkansas Aggies' Team

FIGHTING desperately to the last minute, tackling hard and cleanly and hitting the line with unflinching vigor, the Arkansas Aggies went down to defeat before the Army team on the West Point gridiron, Nov. 10. The final score was 44-0, but it carries no indication of the gallant battle staged by the Southwesterners.

They were doomed from the start, as the rejuvenated cadet eleven outplayed them in all departments of the game, although it was without the services of the magnetic Garbisch, whom the coaches held on the side lines. Army, playing its first game after the Yale disaster, displayed great power and speed and proved that she had staged a definite "come-back."

The hard-hitting tacklers of the Arkansas aggregation kept the Army backs more or less "mussed up." Second string Quarterback Johnson was rushed to the hospital after he received a punt and both the Aggie ends at the same identical instant, and a little later Smythe, the Army's brilliant regular quarter, was taken out with a slightly sprained shoulder, under the same circumstances.

The casualties were not all on the Army side, however, as Powers of the Aggies had to be carried off the field, after attempting to stop one of "Bill" Wood's headlong gallops down the field. The reliable Army fullback scored four touchdowns and out-kicked the Aggies by many yards.

Smythe played his usual sparkling game and got away for several long runs. A passing combination, Smythe to Baxter, worked very well, while the down-field work of Don Storek, who was back in the Army line-up, was as good as any seen on the plains this year. Farwick and Goodman both did excellent work in the line, and Dean made a brilliant run.

Jones and Webb starred for the Aggies.

A large cheering section came all the way from Russellville, Ark., and was led by Miss Nora Brown, a member of the faculty.

The line-up:

Army (44)		Arkansas Aggies (0)
Westphalinger	Center	Thompson
Farwick	Right guard	Smith
Goodman	Right tackle	McElroy
Baxter	Right end	Rogers
Smythe	Quarterback	Edwards
Hewitt	Left halfback	Powers
Ives	Right halfback	Leming
Wood	Fullback	Jones

Score by periods—	12	12	14	6-44
Army	12	12	14	6-44
Arkansas Aggies	0	0	0	0-0

Substitutions—Army: Fraser for Gilbreath, Storick for Baxter, Schmidt for Mulligan, Stewart for Ellinger, Ellinger for Stewart, Farwick for Westphalinger, Stewart for Farwick, Stowell for Goodman, Henney for Stowell, Cornog for Henney, Strohecker for Stewart, Yoemans for Smythe, Smythe for Yoemans, Wood for Smythe, Gilmore for Wood, Daly for Hewitt, Blaisdell for Ives, Dean for Blaisdell, Aggies: Clements for Smith, White for Rogers, Gibson for Gannors, Webb for Powers, Hamilton for Webb, Webb for Jones.

N.Y. GUARDSMEN WIN AT POLO

Greater experience and hard riding combined to produce a victory for the 101st N.Y.N.G. Cavalry's polo team when it opened the indoor season in the Bay Ridge, Brooklyn, armory on Nov. 10. It defeated the trio from the Bay Ridge Riding and Driving Club 6-1.

The single goal of the Bay Ridge club was scored by Erath at No. 2. Capt. Bratton, playing at No. 3, turned in a stellar performance. The Cavalrymen had no difficulty in winning.

The line-up:

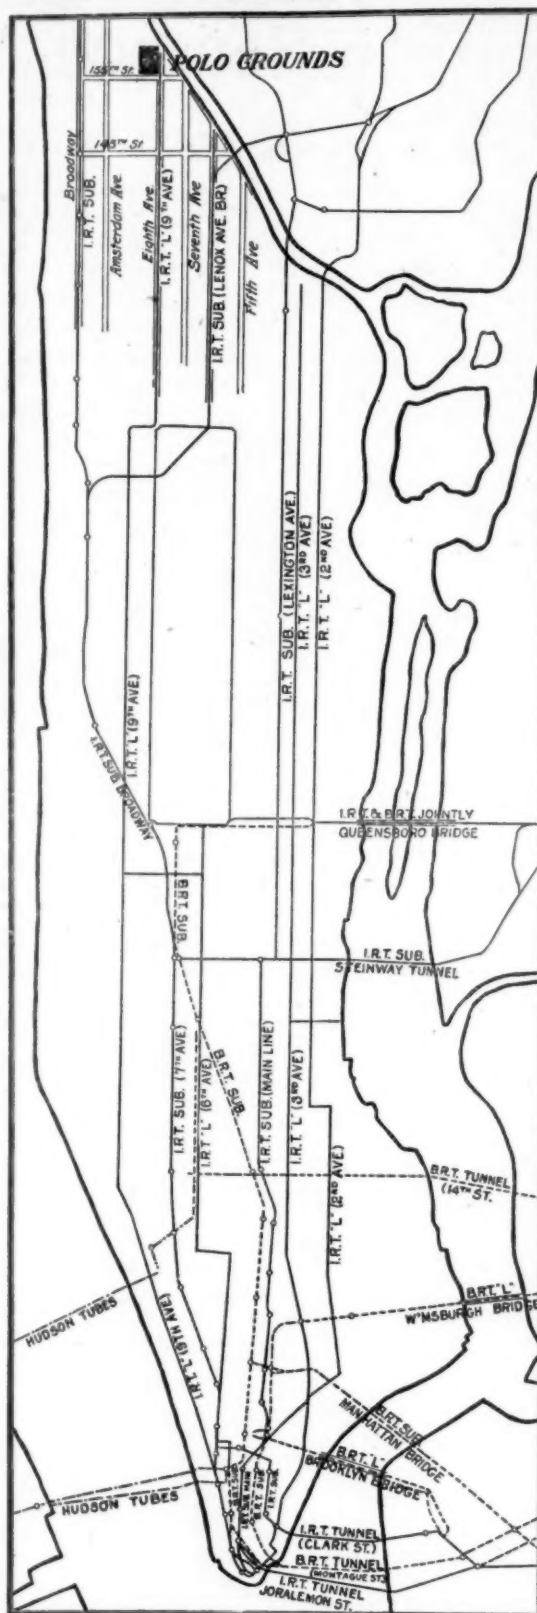

101st Cavalry (6).		Bay Ridge (1).
Fraser	No. 1	Eller
Wilson	No. 2	Erath
Brachtel	No. 3	Bratton

Referee—Capt. McInerney. Goals scored—Fraser, Wilson, Kornblum, Mortenson, Hart and Erath. Time game—Four chukkers of 7½-minute periods. Substitutes for 101st Cavalry—Hart, Mortenson and Kornblum.

COMDE. ROYDEN WINS NAVY GOLF TOURNAMENT

Cdr. R. W. Ryden, C.C., U.S.N., has been announced as the winner of the Construction Corps golf tournament over a field of seventeen competitors. He is stationed in the Canal Zone. Second place was taken by Lt. F. W. Penoyer, C.C., U.S.N., stationed at the Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla.

How to Reach the Polo Grounds in New York City

When the Army and Navy football teams clash in the big Service gridiron classic next Saturday, Nov. 24, all roads will temporarily lead to the Polo Grounds, in New York City, where the big game is to be played. Routes of transportation are shown in the accompanying diagram.

The Polo Grounds are located between Eighth avenue on the east and the Speedway on the west, and are just north of the 155th street viaduct.

The main entrance is on the east, and is most easily reached by the elevated lines, which have a station directly at the stadium. The most direct route, then, is via the Sixth or Ninth avenue elevated lines to the 155th street station. Subway passengers may take trains on the Broadway line to 157th street, and walk east to the Speedway entrance. The Broadway trains run directly to and from Brooklyn.

Passengers on the Lexington Avenue subway may change to Sixth Avenue south-bound elevated trains at 167th street. All surface lines in the Bronx transfer to Polo Grounds cars.

Automobiles may use both the Speedway and the Eighth Avenue entrances, though the Speedway is more desirable.

Persons coming from the south end of the Bronx will use the 155th street bridge and the viaduct to the Speedway.

Those coming from the Dyckman street ferry may take the Speedway or Broadway to 155th street, and thence east to the Polo Grounds.

Football Expert Declares Navy's Eleven May Win

By ARTHUR JANSEN, IN THE NEW YORK MAIL

IN view of the fact that Navy lost to the West Pointers last fall, and is furthermore going to play the Tournament of the Roses game at Pasadena, Calif., on New Year's Day, the midshipmen are particularly desirous of winning. Army, on the other hand, having already suffered two defeats despite the presence of a veteran team, does not want to bow again this season, especially to Navy.

The middies suffered their one defeat this fall at the hands of Penn State, the Nittany Lions trouncing the Annapolis players by a 21-3 count at State College, Pa.

Nevertheless, I would not in any wise be surprised if the Navy eleven, which has really been making great progress during the past three weeks, expiates the 17 to 14 setback sustained at Franklin Field a year ago.

Navy Swamps St. Xavier Winning by Score of 61-0

FOLLOWING the ball with an aptitude which was almost uncanny, the gridiron warriors of the Naval Academy overwhelmed St. Xavier of Cincinnati by a score of 61-0, at Annapolis on Nov. 10. It was the last game of the season before the Army contest at New York on Nov. 24.

The midshipmen scored nine touchdowns and four of them were directly the result of intercepted forward passes. Barchet, the flashy little Navy star, was back in the game and did some exceptionally fine work. Shapley and Flippen also won commendation, each of them carrying the ball over twice.

The opponents showed flashes of brilliancy on the offensive and on two occasions they reeled off substantial gains, but in each case they were held by the Navy line and at no time was the sailors' goal line in danger.

After Davis, crack back of the visiting aggregation, was injured, the attack of St. Xavier was perceptibly slower, but their defense increased in the second half and the Navy was held to two touchdowns, both scored in the third quarter.

The line-up:

Naval Academy (61).		St. Xavier (0).
Taylor	Left end	Mueller
Carney	Left guard	Thieken
Zuber	Center	Bartlett
Levensky	Right guard	Vail
Shewell	Right tackle	Bauerichter
Bernet	Right end	Weiskittel
Flippen	Quarterback	Rapp
Cullen	Right halfback	Davis
	Fullback	Marnell

Navy	19	28	14	0-61
St. Xavier	0	0	0	0-0

Touchdowns—Barchet (substitute for Flippen), 3; Shapley, 2; Flippen, 2; McKee (substitute for Devens); Levensky. Point from touchdown—Barchet, 6 (placement goals); Shapley, 1 out of 3 placement goals. Referee—H. J. Davidson, University of Pennsylvania. Umpire—D. H. Sangee, Haverford. Head line-man—F. B. Whitstone, University of Pennsylvania. Field judge—J. T. Cooks, University of Pennsylvania. Time of periods—15 minutes each.

Third Corps Area Defeats U.S. Scouting Fleet 42-7

THE football team representing the United States Scouting Fleet bowed to the 3d Corps Area Army eleven at Baltimore on Nov. 10, when the soldiers swept their way to a 42-7 victory. The result was never in doubt, as the sailors were clearly outplayed.

The 3d Corps Area team comprising such men as Noyes, former Naval Academy star, and Bredster, Greene, Storck, Dodd and Timberlake, all veterans of West Point teams, ran rough-shod over the seamen. They scored their first touchdown soon after the opening whistle, and the sailors never had a chance after that.

Michigan "Comes Back" and Defeats U.S. Marines 26-6

SWEEPING the University of Michigan eleven off its feet by the fury of a bewildering aerial and line attack, the football team of the U.S. Marine Corps hurled itself down the field and scored the first touchdown of the season against the Wolverines at Ann Arbor, Mich., on Nov. 10. After that the collegians staged a staggering come-back and played the sea-soldiers off their feet, winning by 26-6.

Due to a mix-up in timing, the first period, which was scheduled for 15 minutes, did not end until after 33 minutes of playing time. It saw the Marines' surprising attack penetrate the Michigan defense almost at will. They took the ball on the kick-off and marched down the gridiron to their touchdown, with Captain Goettge of the Marines starring in the attack. He carried the ball across for their first and only touchdown.

After that it was Michigan all the way. The sea-soldiers were unable to stop the collegians' powerful backfield. Miller, their fullback, plowed through the line almost at will, while Steger raced around the ends for repeated gains. Capt. Kipke of the University eleven clearly outplayed the Service team.

An immense crowd, including many Federal officials, headed by Secretary of the Navy Denby, witnessed the

Three-Cornered Race Is Fort Sill League Feature

STRONG competition is marking the development of the pennant race in the Post League at Fort Sill, Okla., where the eleven representing the 20th Infantry and the "Outlaw" aggregation are trying to overtake the 1st Battalion of the 1st Field Artillery. The 2d Battalion of the Artillery outfit, the 18th Field, and the Air Service teams are trailing along in the rear.

Last week the league leaders trimmed the Air Service by 16-0, though they had several narrow escapes, while the flying Outlaws kept in the race by beating the 2d Battalion of the 1st Field 42-0.

The 1st Field aggregation scored in the first quarter, but the appropriate aerial attack of the Air Service gained 50 yards in the second and then fumbled as the ball went over the goal line, to be recovered by the Artillerymen and kicked out of danger. In the second half they outplayed the Air Service, scoring a touchdown, a goal after touchdown and a field goal.

The line-up:

Air Service—Tunny, l.e.; Ross, l.t.; Littlejohn, l.g.; Wiley, c.; Anthony, r.g.; Nuttal, r.t.; Freeman, r.e.; Waddell, q.b.; Frasier, l.h.b.; Fryling, r.h.b.; Stream, f.b.

The Outlaws played rings around the 2d Battalion in their game, and ran up a total of 35 points in the first half. The Artillerymen came back in the second and twice threatened to score, but lacked the necessary punch. They held the Outlaws to one touchdown in the last half.

The line-up:

2d Battalion, 1st F.A.—Boland, l.e.; Goff, l.t.; Mulliga, l.g.; Way, c.; Smith, r.g.; Stewart, r.t.; Higgins, r.e.; Rylander, q.b.; Parish, l.h.b.; Childs, r.h.b.; Pendleton, f.b.

Referee—Lt. Argo. Head linesman—Chaplain Reynolds.

This leaves the 1st Battalion leading the league with three games won and none lost, the 20th Infantry and the Outlaws tied for second place, each with two games won and one game lost, while the 18th Field has one game each in the winning and losing columns. The 2d Battalion has lost two games and the Air Service has dropped three.

COL. DAVIS PROPOSES A SERVICE TENNIS TOURNAMENT

A championship tennis tournament for officers and enlisted men of the Army and Navy was proposed at an executive committee meeting of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association, held in New York city on Nov. 10, by its president, Col. Dwight F. Davis, O.R.C., assistant Secretary of War.

Col. Davis has been in close touch with athletic affairs of the Services, and during the war sponsored the proposal of a lawn tennis championship tournament for the A.E.F. He pointed out that he was only following a plan adopted in England many years ago.

Bitter Battle Expected When Army and Navy Clash in Annual Service Classic

THERE will be a meeting at the Polo Grounds in New York city next Saturday, Nov. 24, between eleven earnest young men from the United States Military Academy at West Point and an equal number of equally earnest youngsters from the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Those 22 men, in moleskins, will fight out the question of football supremacy, while something like 60,000 rabid partisans, ranging from generals and admirals down to cadets and midshipmen, look on.

It is going to be a hard-fought, gruelling battle before that contest is decided—all Army-Navy football games are—but this year it will be especially fierce.

Both teams have blemished records for the season of 1923, and each is intent upon using the other to erase the spots from its record. The winner of the contest can still "point with pride," but the loser must undoubtedly admit that the season has been unsuccessful.

Army Lost Twice

The Army team has lost twice—and both times by a clean-cut, decisive score. Notre Dame, as usual, won by 13-0, while Yale trimmed the West Pointers 31-10.

Navy, on the other hand, was swamped by Penn State 21-3, and Princeton held her to a 3-3 tie. Navy has only one defeat against the Army's two.

Yet comparative scores are misleading things. Princeton, which tied the Navy, was helpless in the hands of Notre Dame, who won handily 25-2, yet Army held Notre Dame to two touchdowns.

Yes, comparative scores are deceptive. Penn State won by three touchdowns over Navy, and yet each was scored by the same brilliant back after a long run. Navy could not hold Wilson. The question to be answered next week is similar.

Can They Hold Smythe?

"Can the Navy stop Smythe?"

The brilliant Army quarterback has been a sensation in Eastern football this year. He ran 80 yards to a touchdown through the entire Yale team, and has made repeated runs of 80-90 yards against weaker opponents. Last year his 55-yard run was largely instrumental in defeating the Navy at Franklin Field.

Smythe will undoubtedly be closely watched by the midshipmen this year. Yet stopping Smythe is not the entire problem. It also includes stopping Garbisch, the All-American Army center, who generally clears the way for the little quarter's sensational sprints.

On the other hand, the Army must face a question which is almost identical. That question is:

But How About Barchet?

"Can the Army stop Barchet?"

The little Navy star has not been quite as sensational as the Army quarter this year, but for three seasons he has been ploughing through West Point lines and around West Point ends with great gusto. If he repeats this year, he may well lead his team to a victory which will oblige last year's defeat.

Incidentally, 1923 is the crucial year. It breaks the tie which West Point established last year. Twenty-five times have the Army and the Navy clashed, and each has chalked up twelve victories, while one ended in a tie.

To the conflict, both teams are bringing an aggregation of veterans. West Point has in Garbisch a center, who is recognized as the greatest in the East. He was an almost unanimous All-American choice last year, and will undoubtedly be a thorn in the side of the midshipmen before the final whistle blows.

Farwick, another veteran linesman, has played guard for three years, while Capt. Mulligan at tackle is playing his fourth Navy game. He has recently been outshaded a bit by his running mate, "Sandy" Goodman, who tore Yale's line to shreds.

Wood Should Outpunt Navy

Wood, in the backfield, is one of the greatest punters in the game, and should give the Army a big advantage in that department of the game. "Tiny" Hewitt, former University of Pittsburgh star, is a famous line-plunger.

The Navy possesses a back-field of rare merit, containing such splendid material as Barchet, Shapley, Devens, Flippin, Cullen and McKee. It is much better provided with back-field substitutes than is the Army.

The Navy ends are not as great as those which were almost unequaled last year, but they easily outshine their opponents from up the Hudson. West Point is conspicuously weak at the wings, and that is a great handicap in this day of open football. Taylor and Brown can be expected to give a good account of themselves, though Don Storck, the Army's crippled end, may get in the game and help to restore the balance in that department.

Navy Has Better Ends

To the unbiased observer, Navy looks better on the ends, while Army has a decided advantage in the center and in punting. Smythe and Barchet offset one another as broken-field runners, and the lines from tackle to tackle are just about even, though Army may have a shade the better of it.

Neither team has an exceptional forward-passing attack, though that of the Navy has been uniformly more successful. It may outshine the Army in that department of the game.

Summarizing the "dope," the Army looks slightly better, but the margin is so very slight that no predictions can be made on it. The men to watch on the field will be Smythe, Garbisch and Wood of the Army, and Barchet, Shapley and Cullen of the Navy.

Both teams are on edge and in excellent condition. Both have been exceedingly well coached. Both will be supported by a collection of howling young maniacs, in cadet gray and midshipman blue, which will cause them to fight like demons till the last whistle blows.

And the issue is on the lap of the Gods.

Military Entries Feature the New York Horse Show

GREAT interest has attended the progress of the New York Horse Show, which opened in the Squadron A Armory, Park avenue and 66th street, New York city, on Nov. 11. There were hundreds of exhibitors and the mounts were of an unusually excellent standard. Many military entries and events were features of the show.

Among the principal exhibitors were the stables of the U.S. Military Academy, West Point, N.Y., the 3d Cavalry, Fort Myer, Va., and the Cavalry School, Fort Riley, Kas.

The second day's program included an exhibition by the 3d Cavalry detachment, from Fort Myer, Va., which won a great deal of applause. The Cavalrymen performed the usual monkey drills and stunt riding, as well as a dying horse stunt and a rider shot from his horse.

Service winners and events included the following:

Class 180—Artillery horses, shown in hand—First, Sherman, b.g., U.S. Military Academy; second, Adams, b.g., U.S. Military Academy; third, Babe, b.g., 16th Field Artillery; fourth, Dick, blk.g., Battery E, 2d Battalion, 7th Field Artillery.

Class 185—Polo mounts, up to carrying 190 pounds, owned by the U.S. Government or officers of the Regular Army—First, Ella, br.m., 3d Cavalry, U.S.A.; second, School Boy, b.g., Capt. Victor V. Taylor.

Class 186—Officers' chargers. The Col. Frank B. Keech Cup. Horses 15 hands or over. First, Ky, ch.g., 3d Cavalry, U.S.A.; second, Allahmonde, ch.g., 3d Cavalry, U.S.A.; third, Gaylord, ch.g., 3d Cavalry, U.S.A.; fourth, Tango Dancer, ch.g., 3d Cavalry, U.S.A.

Class 184—Polo mounts, the W. A. Harriman Cup; polo mounts up to carrying 165 pounds; owned by the U.S. Government or officers of the Regular Army. First, Madras, gr.m., U.S. Military Academy; second, Marvel, b.g., U.S. Military Academy; third, Vampire, b.m., U.S. Military Academy.

Class 189—The Overseas Cup. Horses up to carrying 200 pounds, owned by the U.S. Government or Regular officers of the U.S. Army. First, Proctor, b.g., the Cavalry School; second, Tango Dancer, ch.g., 3d Cavalry School; third, Ky, ch.g., 3d Cavalry, U.S.A.; fourth, Allahmonde, ch.g., 3d Cavalry, U.S.A.

Class 174—The Commodore Cup; hunters or jumpers over triple bars. First, Morgan, b.g., 3d Cavalry, U.S.A.; second, Raven, blk.g., the Cavalry School; third, Proctor, b.g., the Cavalry School; fourth, Jack Snipe, br.g., the Cavalry School.

Class 181—Troopers' mounts. First, Kay, ch.g., Troop K, N.Y. State Troopers; second, Brett, br.g., U.S. Military Academy; third, Cantigny, br.g., 3d Cavalry, U.S.A.

Class 127—Hunters or saddle horses, walking class—First, Midnight, blk.g., C. C. Stillman; second, Ky, ch.g., 3d Cavalry, U.S.A.; third, Mine Rune, b.g., Mrs. Stuyvesant Penbody; fourth, Tyrone, ch.g., R. J. Fleming.

Delaware Societies Hear Addresses by Gen. Drum

BRIG. GEN. HUGH A. DRUM, U.S.A., commanding 2d Coast Artillery District, on Nov. 7 and 8 was busily engaged in making addresses before the Wilmington Kiwanis Club and the Association of the Kiwanis of the United States. The Kiwanis Club luncheon was well attended by business men of Wilmington and the general's lecture on the National Defense act aroused considerable interest in our present military policy. The evening program was under the auspices of the Wilmington Sector, Association of the Army of the United States, and had as its principal attraction Gen. Drum's illustrated lecture, "What Americans Did in the World War." It proved to be a revelation to most of the large number present.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred I. DuPont entertained at dinner in honor of Gen. Drum and had as their guests the following well known officers of the three components of the Army: Col. J. Austin Ellison, The Adjutant General, Delaware; Col. John P. LeFevre, 198th Art. (A.A.), Del. N.G.; Maj. George J. Schulz, 198th Art. (A.A.), Del. N.G.; Harry B. Van Seiver, 198th Art. (A.A.), Del. N.G.; Edward G. Bradford, jr., J.A.G.D., S.S.C. and D., Del. N.G.; John P. McCaskey, jr., C.A.C. and U.S.A.; Charles L. Williams, C.A.C. and U.S.A.; Capt. Lewis A. Hudgins, C.A.C. and U.S.A.; Maj. J. C. Lawson, O.R.; Lt. Frank C.

McHugh, O.R.; Lt. Perry M. Smith, aid to Gen. Drum, and Mrs. I. B. Sinclair, Supt. Maryland Div. Penn. R.R.

Gen. Drum spent Nov. 8 in making an inspection of Forts DuPont and Salisbury and in discussing the plans for the annual field training of the 198th Artillery (anti-aircraft), Delaware National Guard.

126th Inf., Mich. N.G. Has Best Drill Record in State

THE 126th Infantry, National Guard of Michigan, Col. J. H. Schouten, whose headquarters are at Lansing, has received notification from Maj. Gen. George C. Rickards, Chief of the Militia Bureau of the War Department, that the 126th Infantry has attained the highest average attendance for the year 1923 of any tactical unit of similar grade in Michigan, as compared with the maintenance strength required for the organization.

"Attendance at drill," says Gen. Rickards, "is the only definite factor that can furnish an accurate basis of comparison. It is the one factor, however, which can provide the foundation for active or potential organizational efficiency. It is indicative of high esprit and morale and gives evidence of that interest in training without which no organization can hope to be of true military value. My congratulations are extended to you and each member of your command for this very meritorious accomplishment."

Col. Schouten, in congratulating his command, urges it to still greater efforts in the future.

Only Veterans of Former Wars Receiving Decorations

SECRETARY OF WAR WEEKS sat in his office until the stroke of midnight on April 7, signing orders for decorations, it became known in Washington last week. This was due to the law passed by Congress which terminated the award of such decorations on that date. He has signed none since and none of the coveted ribbons has been issued.

Under an act of Congress passed since the World War, certain officers who had been brevetted for distinguished service in the Civil War, Indian campaigns and Spanish War have been given the same decorations as World War veterans. They have been and are being awarded from time to time on the records of the War Department.

Campaign Opens for 25-Year Retirement

ANNOUNCEMENT was made this week by Sergt. Ernest A. Perry, D.E.M.L., on duty in Harrisburg, Pa., that he will launch another better Army retirement movement at the approaching session of Congress, providing that the necessary funds can be raised to finance the proposition. It can be recalled that Sergt. Perry sponsored a similar movement during the last session of Congress for a 25-year retirement with similar provisions to that of the Navy.

Several months ago Sergt. Perry organized the U.S. Army Association of Boosters and headquarters were actually opened at Boston in the 1st Corps Area, and a second post was organized at Fort Jay, N.Y., in the 2d Corps Area. At the time, it was contemplated to organize similar headquarters in the different corps areas, but as sufficient support was not given this movement, the idea has been abandoned.

National Guard Notes

THE aggregate strength of the National Guard on Oct. 31, 1923, totaled 166,009 officers and enlisted men, which not only is a gain of 202 over the September strength, but is the highest enrolment which the National Guard has attained since the war. New York heads the list with a total enrolment of 20,609, with the state of Pennsylvania coming next with 11,637. Massachusetts has third place in strength, with a grand total of 9,075. Texas, which has been slowly but gradually coming up in strength, is fourth with a total of 8,194, while Ohio has 8,145 officers and men enrolled. Out of the grand total of 166,009 officers and men, there are 10,059 commissioned officers and 155,950 enlisted men. Relative to the National Guard Reserve, there are 466 officers enrolled and 81 enlisted men.

A REVIEW of the 71st Infantry, N.Y. N.G., Col. J. H. Wells, will be held in the armory, New York city, on Wednesday night, Nov. 28. Acting Mayor Murray Hulbert will be the reviewing officer.

Promotions and Retirements

THE following officers of the Navy have become eligible for promotion to the ranks indicated from Nov. 13, 1923:

To be rear admiral.—Julian L. Latimer, vice A. S. Halstead, retired.

To be captain.—John C. Fremont, vice J. L. Latimer, promoted.

To be commander.—Ralph R. Stewart, vice J. C. Fremont, promoted.

To be lieutenant commander.—Walter O. Henry, vice R. R. Stewart, promoted.

MAJ. GEN. WILLIAM H. HAY, U.S.A., was retired from active service Nov. 6, 1923, for disability incident to the service, after distinguished service. A summary of his more important services was given in the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL of Nov. 10, page 247.

COL. HUNTER B. NELSON, Inf. U.S.A., was placed on the retired list on Nov. 7, 1923, upon his own application after more than 34 years of service. He is a veteran of the campaign of 1898 in Cuba, where he served on the battle line with the 24th Infantry. He also served in the Philippines, and during the World War served with the 328th Infantry in the St. Mihiel drive, and with the 3d Division in the Meuse-Argonne offensive. He was also on duty in France with the 307th Train and Military Police, 82d Division, and at Richelieu, commanding German officers' prisoners of war enclosure. His last post of duty was on the Panama Canal Zone. Col. Hunter was born in Tennessee, March 14, 1869, and was graduated from the U.S.M.A., class of June, 1893, when he was assigned to the Infantry.

COL. FREDERICK P. REYNOLDS, Med. Corps, U.S.A., whose retirement from active service on Nov. 15, 1923, after more than 31 years' service, was noted in the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL of Nov. 10, was awarded the D.S.M., for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services during the World War. The official citation said: "As surgeon of the Advanced Section, Service of Supply, A.E.F., he displayed rare judgment, unusual executive ability, and high professional attainments in the institution of sanitary measures and in providing and supervising hospitalization and evacuation facilities for the sick and wounded flowing into the advanced areas from the principal centers of combat activity."

COL. ROBERT A. BROWN, Cav. U.S.A., was retired from active service Nov. 7, 1923, under the act of June 30, 1882, after a distinguished record of service. He was born in Pennsylvania Nov. 7, 1859, and is a graduate of the U.S.M.A., class of June, 1885, when he was assigned to the 4th Cavalry. He has been a member of the General Staff, is a graduate of the Army War College and of the Infantry and Cavalry School, and during the World War served as a temporary brigadier general, and was given the command of the 84th Brigade, serving on the battle line in France.

Col. Brown was awarded the Croix de Guerre and decoration of Officer of the Legion of Honor, with citation: "An excellent brigade commander whose skillful dispositions and fine conduct under fire contributed to the victory of July 15, 1918."

He went with his brigade to France in 1917 and was in command of it in various actions with the 4th French army, including the battle of July 15, and the repulse of the German offensive, east of Rheims. He later served with his brigade with the 1st Corps of the American Army, participating in various offensives against the Germans. This included operations north of Chateau-Thierry, breaking the German line at Croix Farm, capturing Serpy and Hill 212.

Col. Brown was later chief of staff of Base Section No. 3, London, and was in command of all the rest camps in the Winchester area, England. He joined the 1st Division of the American Army of Occupation in Germany in March, 1919, and was assigned to command the 26th Infantry.

Among other duties, Col. Brown, previous to the World War, served as an instructor in the tactical department of the U.S.M.A. and during the war with Spain was appointed a major and inspector general, U.S.V. He served in Cuba and in Philippine campaigns and was A.D.C. to Maj. Gen. MacArthur. He served on the Mexican border during the troubles there with Mexican bandits.

Service Weddings

FERRIS—JARDEN.—All Saint's Church, Torresdale, Pa., was the scene of a military wedding of much social interest, on Nov. 3, when Miss Alwilda Beverlin Jarden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Jarden, jr., of Graystone, Torresdale, became the bride of Ens. Floyd Ferris, U.S.N.A., class of 1921. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gown in an exquisite creation of white chiffon brocade over white satin, made on straight lines, the drapery of which was caught on the left side, through a buckle of pearls and orange blossoms. Her court train of crepe satin suspended from the shoulders by pearls was embroidered in pearls on the end, in the design of the chiffon brocade. Her tulle veil was scattered with orange blossoms and arranged with a bandeau of the blossoms and a Brussels lace fan formed that of the head. Her shower bouquet was of orchids and lilies of the valley. Miss Evelyn Coloney attended as maid of honor and was gown in a striking straight dress of deep pink silk chiffon velvet. The bridesmaids, Misses Elizabeth Maneely, Pauline Landenberger, Frances O'Neill and Anita Echeverria were similarly attired in rose pink chiffon velvet, draped on one side, with a panel of silver lace on the other. The ringbearer, Master Colby Dorr Howe, wore a colonial costume of white baronet satin with lace ruffles at cuffs and collar. He carried a satin pillow with a cascade of ribbons and orange blossoms—the ring resting on a medallion of Brussels lace. The stepfather of the bridegroom, Mr. Edgar Wolton Winmill of Warrenton, Va., was best man. The ushers were Lts. Lloyd B. Greene, R. B. Tuggle, Lt. (j.g.) R. D. Bell and Ens. Robert Strong, U.S.N. The ceremony was followed by a reception at Graystone, the home of the bride's parents, for the guests and a dinner for the bridal party. Ens. and Mrs. Ferris, upon their return from their wedding trip, expect to reside in Ghent, Norfolk, where Ens. Ferris is now stationed.

KERLEY—HARLAND.—The marriage of Miss Edith Harland of Elko, Va., and Lt. Comdr. Jay Lewis Kerley, U.S.N., of Morganton, N.C., was solemnized at Portsmouth, N.H., Nov. 7, 1923, by Rev. Alfred Gooding. The wedding was of much interest in Navy circles, and at the Portsmouth, N.H., Navy Yard, the usual "at home" of Mrs. Dismukes, wife of Capt. Douglas E. Dismukes, commandant of the yard, coming on the wedding day, was changed into a special reception that afternoon for the newly wedded couple. All the officers and their families at the Portsmouth Navy Yard, and officers on ships at the yard were present. Dancing was enjoyed and a special Paul Jones was led by Comdr. E. R. Norton and Lt. E. E. Brady, the latter using in the dance a bell recently presented to the commandant and used by President George Washington when he visited Portsmouth. The spacious and beautiful quarters of the commandant were decorated with giant begonias and white altar candles. The ladies assisting Mrs. Dismukes at the reception were Meses. Charles T. Owens, J. C. Hilliard, E. E. Brady, Edward Sparrow and E. R. Norton. The bride is a sister of Mrs. Guthrie, wife of Lt. Comdr. Allen H. Guthrie, U.S.N., on duty in submarine construction at the Portsmouth Navy Yard. She has been the guest of Mrs. Guthrie for some weeks and has become very popular in society at the yard. Lt. Comdr. Kerley is liaison officer at Quantico, Va. After a wedding trip of two weeks, passed in the West, the couple will occupy quarters at Quantico.

In the evening, Comdr. and Mrs. Guthrie gave a dinner party of thirty covers at their quarters in honor of the bridal couple. The tables were adorned with pink roses. Among those present were the commandant of the navy yard and Mrs. Dismukes, Capt. and Mrs. Charles T. Owens, Capt. W. M. Hunt, Comdrs. and Meses. Robert E. Hoyt, J. C. Hilliard, Ralph Warfield, D. C. Sowell, D. C. Lazure, Howard Priest, D. L. Trautman, Lts. and Meses. E. E. Brady, P. T. Crosby, Mrs. Shattuck, wife of Lt. Shattuck, John Walton and Edward Sparrow, Lt. and Mrs. McKee and Mrs. Shattuck, wife of Lt. Shattuck.

LOWE—HALL.—Miss Esther Hall, daughter of Col. Harrison Hall, U.S. A., and Mrs. Hall, became the bride of Lt. Percy Stewart Lowe, U.S.A., at a pretty wedding on Nov. 1, 1923, at the home of Col. and Mrs. Hall, at the Presidio of San Francisco, Calif. The ceremony, which took place before an altar of brown and gold chrysanthemums, was read by Train Hard To Win!

No. 5

In Memoriam ran a splendid race. Pitted against Zev and My Own, two of the country's fastest horses, In Memoriam did not run itself out at the start, but stayed well up in the race, and at the crucial moment—with a wealth of reserve strength and speed—forged ahead and WON!

To-day's winner must run the same race and have the same strength and speed!

Some men make a fine start in the Race of Life, but lose due to poor business methods, waste, carelessness, lack of thrift and other failings. They soon run themselves out—falling by the wayside—tail-enders!

Other men train hard for the Race! They store up courage, endurance, character, strength—both financial as well as moral—and best of all are thrifty in everything they do—wasting nothing! Opportunity is forced to smile at such men—and they're always winners!

It's easy to see that a trained man is a thrifty man, so if we're all entered in the Race of Life—as we surely are—why not let's start training NOW and install real thrift methods in our lives? If we do—it's a sure bet we'll win!

Births

ANDERSON.—A daughter was born to Odr. Lesley B. Anderson, U.S.N., and Mrs. Anderson at the Naval Academy on Nov. 8, 1923. The grandparents are Rear Adm. and Mrs. John M. Hawley of Washington, D.C., and Mrs. Frank C. Anderson, widow of Frank C. Anderson of Philadelphia Pa.

BROADDUS.—A cable from Manila, P.I., announces the birth of a son to Lt. Kirk Broaddus, 26th Cav., U.S.A., and Mrs. Broaddus, at Sternberg Hospital on Oct. 30, 1923.

BROOKS.—Capt. and Mrs. A. R. Brooks, now residing in Framingham, Mass., announce the birth of a daughter, Joan Elizabeth, on Nov. 5, 1923.

COLLINS.—Born at St. Luke's Hospital, Davenport, Iowa, Oct. 19, 1923, to Maj. Everett Collins, Ord., U.S.A., and Mrs. Collins, a daughter, Dorothy.

FEINEMAN.—Born on Nov. 1, 1923, at St. Mary's Hospital, Long Beach, Calif., to Mrs. W. W. Feineman, wife of Lt. W. W. Feineman, U.S.N., a son, John Richard.

GLITHERO.—Capt. John Clyde Glithero, 7th Inf., U.S.A., Vancouver Barracks, Wash., and Mrs. Glithero announce the birth of a son, John Clyde, jr., on Oct. 30, 1923, at Letterman General Hospital, San Francisco. Mrs. Glithero was, before her marriage a year ago, Miss Helen Prentice of San Diego, Calif. Capt. Glithero is at the Letterman Hospital, slowly recovering from a concussion of the brain, having been thrown from his horse in a polo game at Vancouver Barracks Aug. 31.

MEREDITH.—Maj. Owen R. Meredith, U.S. A., and Mrs. Meredith announce the birth of a son, Robert Barton, at Walter Reed General Hospital, Washington, D.C., on Sept. 24, 1923.

MILLING.—Maj. T. D. Milling, Air Service, U.S.A., and Mrs. Milling announce the birth of a daughter, Gayly, at Hampton, Va., Nov. 6, 1923.

MONTGOMERY.—Born at St. Joseph's Hospital, San Diego, Calif., Oct. 30, 1923, to Lt. (j.g.) Maurice Montgomery, U.S.N., and Mrs. Montgomery, a son, John Ward.

NULSEN.—Maj. Charles Kilbourne Nulsen, U.S.A., and Mrs. Nulsen announce the birth of a son at Fort Benning, Ga., Nov. 6, 1923.

PITZ.—Born on Oct. 24, 1923, at Letterman General Hospital, a son, Otto Godfrey, jr., to Maj. O. G. Pitz, Coast Art., U.S.A., and Mrs. Pitz.

Rev. C. P. Deems. A reception, which followed, was attended by fifty relatives and close friends. Col. Hall gave his daughter away. She was attended by Miss Aileen McWilliams as maid of honor. Capt. Everard Olsen of Fort Monroe was best man. The bride wore a delicate frock of chiffon and lace and a rose point lace veil that was a family heirloom. Immediately after the reception the bridal couple left on their honeymoon. On Dec. 6 they will sail for the Philippines, where Lt. Lowe has been ordered.

NOVAK—MATHER.—Announcement has been received from Chicago, Ill., of the marriage on Oct. 20, 1923, of Lt. Edward J. Novak, jr., O.R.C., 86th Division, and Miss Ann L. Mather.

PARKINSON—ROBERTS.—Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Pauline Roberts, daughter of Mrs. Milton Jerome Roberts of Oklahoma City, Okla., and Capt. Parley Doney Parkinson, U.S. A., son of Mrs. George C. Parkinson of Salt Lake. The wedding took place at Oklahoma City Oct. 31, 1923. Miss Mildred Russel of Oklahoma City was maid of honor, and Jack Roberts, brother of the bride, was best man.

WAITE—CARRISON.—Maj. Sumner Waite, U.S.A., and Miss Elizabeth Carrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Carrison, were married on Nov. 7, 1923, at Grace Church, Camden, S.C., by the Rev. A. S. Thomas, assisted by the Rev. F. H. Harding, rector of the church.

Engagements

Comdr. W. Roy Mason Field, U.S.N., retired, and Mrs. Field of Princeton, N. J., and Philadelphia have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Breckinridge Field, to Eben J. D. Cross, jr., a son of the late Eben J. D. Cross and Mrs. Cross of Baltimore.

Col. William Paulding, U.S.A., retired, and Mrs. Paulding announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Hubbard, to Mr. Walter T. James of Cleveland, Ohio, son of Prof. and Mrs. James of Middletown, Conn.

Chief of Chaplains, U.S.A., Tells of Chaplains' Work

COL. JOHN T. AXTON, U.S.A., Chief of Chaplains, U.S.A., in his annual report to the Secretary of War for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1923, made public Nov. 11, points out that under the provisions of the act of June 30, 1922, as amended by the act of Sept. 14, 1922, it was necessary during the year to reduce the number of chaplains from 175 to 125.

The separations from the Service, he says, disarranged the distribution of chaplains among the various denominations, and it will not be possible to equalize the quotas of the different churches until vacancies occur and the appointment of chaplains is resumed. Chaplains now in service are classified denominationally as follows:

Baptist, 17; Baptist (colored), 2; Congregational, 8; Disciples of Christ, 8; Lutheran, 7; Methodist Episcopal, 30; Methodist Episcopal (colored), 1; Methodist Protestant, 1; Presbyterian, 13; Protestant Episcopal, 9; Presbyterian (Cumberland), 1; Roman Catholic, 21; Reformed, 2; Universalist, 2; Unitarian, 2; Evangelical, 1; total, 125.

No Distinction of Creed

During the year chaplains have painstakingly addressed themselves to the task of maintaining a better balance between things spiritual and things material, says the Chief of Chaplains. Chaplains have learned to work for all the men without distinction of creed. In so doing they lose none of their loyalty to their respective denominations. The flexibility of program and form of worship in the Army make it possible for them to magnify points of agreement without contending that all creeds are essentially alike or that creed is of no value.

Reserve Corps Chaplains

Prominent clergymen of practically all denominations have shown a keen interest in the chaplains' section of the O.R.C., and have responded promptly to calls for special service. Thirty-eight were assigned to active duty in summer training camps and many have served as volunteer religious workers. During the year there was a net increase of 149 in the number of chaplains in the Reserve Corps. The number newly commissioned was 157. The total number of chaplains in the O.R.C. is 785.

Summer Training Camps

Practically the entire Regular Army chaplain personnel on duty within the continental limits of the United States and thirty-eight chaplains of the O.R.C. were assigned to service with the R.O.T.C. and C.M.T.C. Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish chaplains planned and worked together to make provision for the moral and religious interests of the thousands of young men who volunteered for training. The results were most gratifying.

Col. Axton speaks of the success of the chaplains' conference held last June, and the success of the Chaplains' School.

C.W.S. Reports Progress Despite Appropriations Cut

LIKE many other departments, the Army Chemical Warfare Service has been making progress despite serious handicaps imposed by the government policy of retrenchment. It has accomplished a number of improvements which are of commercial and every-day value, as well as carrying on its military work.

These facts were made public in the annual report of Brig. Gen. Amos A. Fries, Chief of C.W.S., to the Secretary of War, which was published Nov. 12. Extracts from it follow:

The Chemical Warfare Service faced the year 1923 with such a serious cut in its appropriations as to necessitate an entire revision of its operations. In addition to the money available the Service was seriously handicapped by the necessary reduction of officers under the provisions of the Appropriation bill. Many officers, somewhat beyond their rank in years, and with high scientific attainments, took advantage of the provisions of the law to resign and associate themselves with private enterprises.

Living conditions for officers, men and civilian employees at Edgewood Arsenal are far from what they should be. With the exception of six small frame houses recently completed the officers are quartered in miserable war buildings, remodeled from an old base hospital, and in wooden and tar paper shacks, which are unbearably hot in summer and almost impossible to heat in winter. It is essential that proper quarters be provided at an early date, and it is urgently recommended that the Secretary of War give this matter special consideration.

Although working at a disadvantage, the Chemical Warfare Service made noteworthy progress in many of the projects undertaken and practically all of these projects have been developed not only for their military value, but for their commercial and every-day use.

War Gases as Insecticides

One project has been carried on to assist the Bureau of Agriculture to develop the use of war gases as insecticides; one angle of this project is the extermination of locusts which are a curse to the agricultural interests of the Philippine Islands. In this the Chemical Warfare officer, Philippine Islands, is actively assisting the Bureau of Philippine Agriculture.

In co-operation with the Navy Department, Department of Commerce, and various scientific organizations there is being developed an anti-fouling paint for the protection of ship bottoms. Also a study is being made of the preservation of marine piling from the terebro, limnoria and other marine borers.

The Chemical Warfare Service has furnished materials for tests conducted by the Weather Bureau, Department of Agriculture, to determine the effectiveness of smoke clouds in preventing night cooling for the purpose of protecting orchards from frost. The Service has also been called upon to investigate the problem of screening large areas by smoke.

The Service, in conjunction with the Public Health Service, has developed a new method for fumigating ships with very little danger to the personnel engaged in this work.

The Service developed the use of a tear gas which is itself deadly in effect, but which dissipates rapidly and, most important of all, its presence in one-eighth of the amount necessary to injure human beings is intolerable in a harmless way. This process has been perfected and is rapidly being put into use. This material is effective on any vermin, rodents or insects and can be used for storehouses, dwellings, kitchens, etc. This gas can and probably will be used commercially in the killing of the weevil that destroys grain of all kinds while stored in elevators, and it will do this without creating a fire hazard or causing danger to human life.

Gases Used to Foil Robbers

One of the interesting uses of Chemical Warfare agencies, tried out with success, is against robberies of banks, mail trucks, vehicles carrying valuables and pay roll messengers. So instantly effective are the gases used for this that the robber can be put out of action before the robbery can be consummated.

The Service's development of defense against gas has kept pace with that of its offensive use. Among the developments are some of every-day interest, one being a material which is a complete protection against the deadly carbon monoxide which, as everyone knows, has killed many people while working in too tightly closed garages and which is also found in ordinary illuminating gas. Another substance is a protection against ammonia fumes. The Chemical Warfare Service has also worked out a method for putting a very fine film of a material on eyeglasses and even automobile wind shields, making them far easier to see through in misty and rainy weather.

State Senators Review 165 Infantry (69th) N.Y.

COL. JOHN J. PHELAN, commanding the 165th Infantry, N.Y.N.G. (old 69th, N.Y.), in parading his command for review by the Hon. James J. Walker, president pro tem. of the New York State Senate, in the armory in New York city, Nov. 8, gave the senator and the other legislators accompanying him an excellent opportunity of getting first-hand information concerning troops for which they voted appropriations.

The senators present witnessed a most impressive display by one of the best regiments in the state, with an efficient body of officers and an intelligent, well-drilled and obedient body of men.

Senator Walker, in a talk to the officers after the military ceremonies, expressed his very high appreciation of the exhibitions of the evening, and stated that he was convinced that the money spent for the support of the National Guard was money well spent. The senator's colleagues voiced the same sentiments.

Those accompanying Senator Walker, as an honorary staff, included Senators Downing, Cotillo, Sheridan, Strauss and Reburn, Assemblyman Walsh, Commissioner Brown and Col. W. N. Haskell, U.S.A.

The regiment had a large turnout, parading as a completely organized regiment with sixteen units, each of the latter being equipped with the new guidon, and the 165th is the first National Guard regiment hereabouts, it is understood, to parade with the new guidons.

The ceremony of review was under command of Col. Phelan, while that of parade was under Lt. Col. Costigan, and both were conducted in all details in accordance with new Infantry Drill Regulations. In addition to the ceremonies, Co. K, Capt. MacNulty, gave a close order drill, and Co. D, Capt. Kelly, gave a machine gun drill. Maj. Gen. C. W. Berry and Brig. Gen. Edward Duffy were among the interested spectators.

Maj. Gen. C. W. Berry Reviews 107th N.Y.N.G.

MAJ. GEN. CHARLES W. BERRY, commanding the New York National Guard, made his first formal public appearance in an armory review by reviewing the 107th Infantry, N.Y.N.G. (old 7th), under command of Col. Wade H. Hayes, on the evening of Nov. 9, over 3,000 persons being present and applauding roundly.

Gen. Berry first entered the military service as a private in Co. H of the famous old 7th, Feb. 6, 1903, when Col. Daniel Appleton was C.O., and his experience gained therein of performing even the smallest details thoroughly, was the foundation which enabled him to attain his subsequent high honors, which included distinguished service on the battle line in France.

The regiment in the review and parade made a fine appearance, and in the passage the companies swinging by with splendid fronts, and Gen. Berry was highly pleased with the showing made by his old command.

The staff of Gen. Berry was composed of Col. McLeer, Lt. Cols. Reagan, Taylor, Reynolds and Lovell and Capt. Brennan.

Many well-known officers, most of them graduates of the old 7th, were present among the special guests invited to greet Gen. Berry. These were Brevet Brig. Gen. W. C. Fisk, who took the regiment to France; Col. A. J. Little, Lt. Cols. Nick Engel and Robert Mazet, who served on the battle line. Others present who were in the service of the U.S. during the World War included Brig. Gen. L. W. Stotesbury, Col. John J. Byrne, Col. DeWitt C. Falls, Col. J. Weston Myers, Col. John F. Daniell and Lt. Col. R. McLean, all of the old 7th, and Col. A. H. Huguet, U.S.A. Others of the special guests included Col. J. H. Wells of the 71st N.Y.; Lt. Col. Walter G. Schuyler, Maj. Philip Rhinelander, O.R.C., and Brevet 2d Lt. Morgan, who joined the 7th in April, 1864, and has been connected with it over fifty-nine years.

Previous to the review Gen. Berry and other special guests were entertained at dinner in the armory. Here Gen. Berry in some brief remarks paid tribute to the efficiency of the regiment.

Taking I.G. Dept. into General Staff

A PROPOSITION by which the Inspector General's Department would become a division of the General Staff is being discussed in the War Department. It is not a new proposition, but was in the original plan for the reorganization of the General Staff. Its revival now is due to the work of supervising the training camps last summer.

In order to get in touch with the progress of the training camps, with a view to recommending a policy for next year and legislation for the development of the junior components of the Army of the United States, it was necessary to send a large number of General Staff officers to the camps. They were really inspectors. They performed the same duties that the officers of the Inspector General's Department do. About half of them were Reserve officers who were on active duty with the General Staff. The Inspector General's office also did some work in the training camps, Gen. Helmick being very helpful in this respect. As a measure of economy in officer personnel the consolidation is being urged.

Navy Would Keep Its Zeppelins

IT was admitted by Secretary Weeks in a conference with newspaper men that the Army is ambitious to take over at least one of the Zeppelins. The Secretary said that Maj. Gen. Patrick, Chief of the Army Air Service, thinks that the Zeppelin now being built in Germany should be turned over to the Army.

It appears that Gen. Patrick entertains a higher opinion of the military value of the Zeppelin than the Secretary does. There is great difference of opinion, both in the Army and the Navy, as to the value of this type of airship in war, especially with the development of anti-aircraft artillery.

However, the Army Air Service is united in the opinion that the Army should have the Zeppelin type of airship. The Navy is as insistent that it should retain the ships. There is a united cry in the Navy of "Don't give up the airship."

Gen. Wood Holding the Reins

THE failure of Quezon to come to the United States with the independence commission is regarded as a very significant development in the affairs of the Philippine Islands. Knowing the love that Quezon has for the spot-light in Washington, the conclusion is reached that the situation must be very serious from his standpoint to keep him out of this country during the session of Congress.

During all of the discussion Gen. Wood has kept quiet and sawed wood. Evidently he is giving the agitators in the Islands plenty of rope, with the full knowledge that they will eventually hang themselves. The general has spent too much time in the Philippines not to be acquainted with conditions there. He knows that only a few politicians in Manila are interested in the independence movement. There is no real support for it throughout the Islands. It is opposed by the Moros and the non-Christian population of the Islands. Even the gesture towards independence has stirred up trouble there, and the indications are that the independence movement will be killed.

Legal Department for Benefit of the Services

FOR assuming the function of a disbursing agent for the Veterans' Bureau the Comptroller General has become involved in the Senatorial investigation of that bureau. In his testimony before the Senate committee on Oct. 31, Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, Director of the Veterans' Bureau, testified that the payment of $33,000 to Matthew O'Brien, a San Francisco architect, had been made over his protest by Comptroller General McCarl. This payment of additional $33,000 was for a revision of the architect's plans for a government hospital at Livermore, Calif., to make them accord with the terms of the original contract. Gen. Hines read into the record a letter which he subsequently wrote to McCarl protesting against the payment and asking that steps be taken to recover from O'Brien the sum paid. He declared that he had not received any reply from the Comptroller General to this letter.

This development ought to serve as a warning to the Comptroller General against the policy which he is attempting to put into effect in handling Army and Navy accounts. No doubt the Comptroller General made the payment under the impression that the sum was due the architect. However, it is bound to prove embarrassing to the Comptroller General and tend to discredit him before Congress.

The fight that the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL is making through its Legal Department to protect the interests of the Services is now attracting national attention. The large press associations have carried accounts of it and some of the metropolitan papers commended the JOURNAL for its efforts in this direction.

WEST POINT CLASSES ENTITLED TO RENTAL ALLOWANCES.

ONE of the most arbitrary and unjust decisions of the Comptroller General is that which had deprived the West Point classes of 1922 and 1923 of their rental allowances for the period of their leave following graduation. If there is ever a time when an officer needs every cent of his pay it is when he comes out of the Academy and before he has been assigned to duty. The rental allowance, as has been stated previously in this column, is treated by one part of the Treasury Department as part of his income or pay when the Government collects its taxes, but the Comptroller General twists the Pay act so as to deprive him of it when he needs it the most. It is natural to presume that the class of 1924, which graduates next June, will also be deprived of this allowance by the Comptroller. It would appear that the time had arrived when some action should be taken in court to establish the right of second lieutenants to this allowance.

In order to secure a clear statement of the rights of officers under the law Ansell & Bailey have been requested by the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL for an opinion on the subject. Their opinion follows:

"You ask for our opinion upon the question whether the members of the West Point classes of 1922 and 1923 are entitled to rental allowance for the period while on leave following their graduation. The pertinent part of Sec. 6 of the act of June 10, 1922, reads:

Each commissioned officer on the active list or on active duty below the grade of brigadier general, or its equivalent, in any of the services mentioned in the title of this act, if public quarters are not available, shall be entitled at all times in addition to his pay to a money allowance for rental quarters.

"Obviously, it is the manifest purpose of the statute to give all officers 'on the active list or on active duty below the grade of brigadier general, or its equivalent, in any of the Services mentioned in the title of the act,' a rental allowance 'at all times' if available public quarters are not provided for the officers and their dependents. The only requirement of the statute is that the officer shall be on the active list or on active duty and that public quarters are not available. The statute does not require an active duty status or the performance of active duty, but, on the other hand, by its plain terms excludes any such requirement. Accordingly, the mere fact that an officer is not on actual duty status or in the performance of active duty in no wise affects his right to the rental allowance. Inasmuch, therefore, as the members of the West Point classes of 1922 and 1923 were on the 'active list' of the Army for the period they were on leave following their graduation, they are, in our opinion, unquestionably entitled to the rental allowance for the period indicated."

LEGAL DEPARTMENT'S SCOPE.

IN order to emphasize the fact that the Legal Department takes care of other matters than those which are before the Court of Claims, a letter which Gen. Ansell has written to an officer in the Service is published. Even before the establishment of the Legal Department, the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL, through co-operation with Ansell & Bailey, took steps to protect the rights of officers and men in the Service in the Smith-Loekhart bankruptcy proceedings. As the result of activities in that direction members of this firm are now under sentences to the penitentiary. The civil proceedings have not yet closed and there are several cases pending in the court at Baltimore which will determine how much these claimants will receive from the referee in the case.

The following is the text of Gen. Ansell's letter:

"COLONEL: In your letter of the 3d instant you ask whether we as counsel for the Legal Department, ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL, advise members of the Service in their personal affairs as well as official, and you go on to say that you and others with whom you have spoken have the impression that our practice is confined to matters arising out of the official relation and largely restricted to claims for pay, allowances, etc.

"Replying, permit us to say that your impression is wrong. Our firm is engaged in the general practice of the law and is by no means confined to the Services, nor, in respect of the Services, is it restricted to questions arising out of the official relation of members of the Services, but extends as well to their purely private and personal affairs; as, for example, wills, estates, contracts, general business questions and litigations.

"Answering your question specifically, permit us to quote from the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL of Sept. 29, 1923, where, in announcing the change of name from Claims Department to Legal Department, to reflect the enlarged scope of that department to include advice upon legal questions involving the purely personal affairs of members of the Services. The ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL said (p. 115):

Our experience with the Claims Department has shown that members of the Services are confronted with questions arising out of the personal relation, in such matters as accounts, investments, rents, leases, deeds, interests in real and personal property, contracts, wills, etc., as frequently as with those arising out of claims and other like official matters. The ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL's arrangement with Messrs. Ansell & Bailey remains as it has always been in respect of the claim and the advisability of seeking a recovery, without charge to the member submitting it; and likewise in respect of questions submitted upon matters of the personal relation, such as there mentioned above, such opinion will be given gratuitously. Such service will place no member requesting it under any obligation whatever either to the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL or to the counsel of the Legal Department.

"Very truly yours."

COMPTROLLER GENERAL DECIDES.

Under the provisions of the act of Sept. 24, 1917, as amended, an enlisted man employed as speaker at Liberty Loan meetings for the period from Sept. 29 to Oct. 6, 1918, is entitled to reimbursement for the expenses incurred for lodging furnished during such period. (Parrett's case, Nov. 3, 1923.)

Under the law and regulations reimbursement is authorized only for the reasonable and customary expenses of funeral and burial in an amount not exceeding $100. By this is meant such expenses as those ordinarily incurred in connection with the ordinary burial, and includes embalming, casket, boxing, undertaker's fee, hearse, limited number of carriages, digging of grave space. (McHugh's case, Nov. 1, 1923.)

Under the laws relating to the Army and by statute made applicable to the Navy, and the long continued holding of the accounting officers, a naval officer on sick leave from Jan. 22, 1919, to Feb. 17, 1919, is not entitled to commutation of quarters while on such leave. (Baker's case, Nov. 2, 1923.)

A soldier discharged at Nogales, Ariz., and still remaining there approximately a year thereafter, having purchased real estate and entered into business relations there, with no apparent intention of going at a definite future time to Panama City, Fla., whither he had elected to receive travel pay, supporting his election by an affidavit executed by his sister averring that claimant had always made his home with her in Alabama, that during his service it was always understood between them at the end of his enlistment he would return to live with her and that he contributed to buying a home for her in Panama City and furnished a room set which she always kept in readiness for him, is not entitled to travel allowance to Panama City, since the evidence, notwithstanding the explanation for remaining at Nogales for temporary purposes, does not show that place to be his actual bona fide home or residence. (Clay's case, Nov. 5, 1923.)

While the compensation of retired enlisted men of the Army and Navy as employees of the Panama Canal is subject to a deduction of their pay as retired enlisted men, payments made by disbursing officers or otherwise of such Canal compensation without such retired pay deduction, prior to Sept. 28, 1923, need not now be disturbed. Such subsequent payments, if any, in which the deduction has not been made should be corrected by the taking of such action as is necessary to bring them into conformity with the decision of Sept. 28, 1923. (Letter to Chief Military Division, Oct. 30, 1923.)

J.A.G. OF NAVY OPINIONS.

Naval Reserve Force: Date of confirmed promotion of officers.—Held: Where officers of the Naval Reserve Force are promoted to next higher grade, up to and including grade of lieutenant commander with their running mates, their commissions should be dated from date of running mate's promotion in Navy, regardless of whether or not they passed required professional and physical examination prior to that date. Provided they have had prescribed amount of sea service, and that they subsequently pass prescribed examinations.

Naval Reserve Force: Confirmed commissions of officers transferred from the class in which confirmed.—Held: That where an officer of the Naval Reserve Force, confirmed in one class thereof, is qualified for transfer to another class in his confirmed rank or rating, he may be transferred upon his own application or with his consent and a new confirmation in the class to which transferred is not required.

Death Gratuity: Payment of, under act of June 4, 1920.—Held: That where an individual in the naval service, in the absence of a widow or child, has previously designated a dependent relative as his beneficiary, it becomes the duty of the Paymaster General under the terms of this act to immediately pay the amount of the death gratuity to said dependent relative upon receipt of official notification of the death from wounds or disease not the result of his or her own misconduct.

That in the absence of any provision in the statute relative to the date when the designation of a dependent relative shall be made, this office is also of the opinion that the determination of the exact date of the designation thereof is immaterial, provided, of course, it is shown that the designation of the dependent relative was actually made by the deceased.

That the payment of the six months' gratuity may be made by the Paymaster General to the widow or child or children without their having been previously designated by the deceased, and in their absence to a dependent relative previously designated by him, regardless of whether or not said relative was designated by the deceased prior or subsequent to June 4, 1920, provided, of course, it is shown that the designation was actually made by him.

That in deciding the question of dependency, the fact that the officer or man designates an individual as a dependent relative should be given great weight, as no one is better informed concerning the dependency of the relative than the person making the designation. The further fact that the law provides in clear and unambiguous terms that the payment of this gratuity shall be made "immediately upon official notification of the death from wounds or disease not the result of his or her own misconduct" of an officer, enlisted man or nurse in the naval service, shows that Congress intended this relief to be rendered as expeditiously as possible and is an additional reason for accepting the designation made by the officer or enlisted man as final. In the case of a widow or child or children, said gratuity shall be paid immediately by the Paymaster General irrespective of their age or dependency.

That the question of whether or not the death of the officer or man was due to his own misconduct is a matter to be determined by the Secretary of the Navy, but that in the absence of fraud all other questions determined by the Paymaster General in making the payments should be held as final and conclusive where made in accordance with the explicit terms of the statute.

NAVY UNIFORM REGULATIONS

Approved by the Secretary of the Navy September 20, 1922

Section 273 (A) prescribes a Regulation RAINCOAT for every chief petty officer and each enlisted man of the Navy. Section 273 (B) directs that "prior to transfer of men from a training station or receiving ship to a cruising vessel, their outfits are to be completed," which includes a Regulation RAINCOAT.

NATIONAL SOJOURNERS ORGANIZE NEW CHAPTER IN BOSTON.

New England Chapter 12, of the National Sojourners Clubs, was formally instituted at the Boston Masonic Club on Nov. 5. The national president, Brig. Gen. Amos A. Fries, and Col. Harry L. Gilchrist, M.C., journeyed from Washington to aid the Boston Sojourners in getting under way.

Provisional officers were selected until such time as the club might be prepared to elect officers for the coming year. Those to act provisionally were: President, Lt. Col. Walter C. Sweeney, G.S.; vice president, Brig. Gen. Jesse Stevens, state adjt. Gen.; secretary, Capt. Louis R. Knight, Air Service; treasurer, Maj. Walter M. Pratt, O.R.C.; chaplain, Chaplain Harry C. Fraser, 13th Inf.; sentinel, Maj. E. B. Maynard, M.C.

The charter contained over 150 names and will contain many times that number within the month. Gen. Fries made the address of the evening and conducted a selected group of candidates through the mysteries of the "Heroes of '76" degree. The national president and Col. Gilchrist were tendered a dinner at the Masonic Club prior to the organization meeting.

Through the courtesy of President Terhune and the members of the Boston Masonic Club the Sojourners will hold their meetings regularly at the Boston Masonic Club on Commonwealth avenue.

BALTIMORE SOJOURNERS NOMINATE OFFICERS FOR THEIR CHAPTER.

Candidates nominated by a committee of the Baltimore Chapter No. 7, Sojourners Club, for election in December, at a meeting in the Hotel Emerson on Nov. 7, included the following slate:

President, Col. George E. Ball; vice president, Col. F. S. Youngs; secretary-treasurer, Maj. Herbert C. Fooks; chaplain, Capt. F. M. Thompson; sentinels, Capt. Edward W. Crane and Frederic C. Baumann.

Dr. M. W. Pullen of Johns Hopkins University delivered an address to the chapter, taking for his topic the 47th problem of Euclid. He told of the many combinations of the squares made by the use of this problem, and their general significance. His lecture was illustrated with lantern slides.

RESERVE OFFICERS OF BROOKLYN TO HEAR GEN. DELAFIELD.

The Brooklyn Chapter of the Reserve Officers' Association will hold a smoker and vaudeville entertainment at the 13th Regiment C.A.C. Armory, corner Sumner and Jefferson avenues, on Thursday, Nov. 22, at 8:30 p.m.

Brig. Gen. J. R. Delafield, president of the national association; Col. Jenks, chief of staff of the 78th Div.; Col. Traub, chief of staff of the 77th Div.; Col. Kraker, division surgeon of the 78th Div.; Col. Brooks, division surgeon of the 77th Div., and Col. Bradley, C.O. 18th Inf., will be the guests of Col. J. C. De Vries, the president of the chapter.

Col. De Vries was elected to the national council of the Reserve Officers' Association at its recent convention in Detroit.

THE QUARTERMASTER REVIEW, November-December issue. The contents of this magazine are exceptionally interesting this month. Three articles stand out through striking and unusual merit, and the least of these is not that by Lt. Roger O'Leary, Q.M.C., "The Stone That the Builder Rejected." This article should be read by every officer in the Service. The other noteworthy contributions are "The Armistice," by that well-known Army author, Col. James A. Moss, retired, and a tribute to the "U.S. Army Quartermaster Corps," by Maj. Frank Fox, formerly of the British Army Q.M. Department. Very provocative to thought are the contributions of Brig. Gen. Amos A. Fries, Chief of C.W.S., on "Gas Warfare and the Q.M.C.," and Lt. Col. Ira F. Fravel, A.S., on "Freight Above the Clouds." Some interesting historical figures are submitted in an article on "Have We Had Our Last War?" showing that our troops have been called into active service more than 100 times.

THE FIELD ARTILLERY JOURNAL, November-December issue. "Some Observations on Accompanying Artillery," by Lt. Col. Clarence Deems, jr., F.A., and "The Artillery Mechanics of Gettysburg," by Lt. Col. Jennings C. Wise, F.A., are both articles which are of high technical interest to members of the Artillery service. The latter is also a valuable contribution from a historical standpoint. "Colorado Endurance Ride of 1923," by Maj. Henry Leonard, U.S.M.C., is an excellent summary of the test, in which the individual performance of each mount is analyzed. It will be of interest to every person interested in horses and riding. Capt. George D. Wahl, F.A., has a very good article on "Organization of a Liaison Detail for a Battery of Light Artillery."

THE INFANTRY JOURNAL, November issue. Improvement in rifle marksmanship due to the scientific training received by various organizations is the subject covered by "The Doctrine of Can Do," written by "An Infantry Convert." It will prove instructive reading. "Convert" has evidently had firsthand experience with his subject. "Discipline," by Capt. C. S. Coulter, Inf., is another interesting article. "Service in Alaska," by 1st Lt. Clyde Grady, 7th Inf., is full of valuable suggestions for any officer who may expect to be stationed there. And every officer in every branch of the Service will be very deeply interested in "The Promotion List," by Capt. F. W. Rase. Finally, there is an article on "Football at West Point," by Capt. A. M. Weyrand, 65th Inf., which will be of interest to all gridiron fans.

UNITED STATES NAVAL INSTITUTE PROCEEDINGS FOR NOVEMBER, 1923, includes in its interesting contents the following: "Earth Features and the Navy Pilot," by Lt. Cdr. Fitzhugh Green, U.S.N.; "Battle-ship Organization," by Lt. Cdr. J. K. Ealer, U.S.N.; "Education and Training of Officer Personnel in the Army and Navy," by Lt. R. E. Bassler, U.S.N.; "The Monitor at Sea and in Battle," by the late Capt. S. Dana Greene, U.S.N.; "The Navy at the Battles of Trenton and Princeton," by Maj. E. N. McClellan, U.S.M.C.; "On the Origin of War," by Lt. P. J. Searles, U.S.N.

ARMISTICE DAY

*Ye have pushed them raw to the battle,
As ye picked them raw from the street.
Kipling, "The Islanders."*

IGNORANCE of the law is not accepted as an excuse for the evils which result when an individual fails to obey the law. The taking advantage of Armistice Day by the advocates of disarmament to endeavor to advance their cause inevitably suggests to the veteran that it is time that this principle so well understood in the case of man-made law be applied to these willful, deliberate, obstinate violators of one of the fundamental laws of nature, which after all are the laws of God.

The whole history of mankind shows that not armament, but the spirit which animates different groups of human beings causes war.

Our Revolutionary War was hardly over when we forgot its lessons. This in spite of its unnecessary prolongation; its failures, which several times almost brought complete defeat; its unnecessary loss of life. We practically entirely disarmed. Certainly armament had nothing to do with bringing on the war of 1812. The violent difference of opinion which obtained between the people of the United States and the people of Great Britain respecting an important principle had everything to do with it. The war which followed was, as usual, unnecessarily prolonged. We suffered many bitter defeats. We took from their homes and occupations many times the total number of men we used in action. We had unnecessary losses in wounded and dead for the results produced because of our military inefficiency. Large sums of money were needlessly wasted, because of the same inefficiency.

As Usual We Learned Nothing

WITH the close of the war we once more relapsed into a period of disarmament. In too many cases, both our press and our pulpit reflected the pacifist ideas so prevalent in Great Britain after the final fall of Napoleon. British literature of that period teems with the same ideas advanced by the pacifist of to-day.

There is still a sufficient number of veterans of both sides of our Civil War left alive to tell the younger generations by word of mouth the long story of how the two opposing armies gradually learned business as they fought, with the bitter defeats, the unnecessary losses and prolongation of the time when a decision could be arrived at, inseparable when hastily raised, untrained armies fight.

Neither the South nor the North was armed when this war began. Certainly, armament had nothing to do with bringing on the war.

That war—one of the fiercest in history, which for proportionate deadliness to human life and limb in any given period of combat is not surpassed by the recent World War—came about because the people of two different sections of this country honestly so greatly differed on fundamental principles and were so determined not to yield, that the question could only be solved by force of arms. Each side, having made up its mind to fight, proceeded to get the necessary armament.

As usual, the war once over, the waste and suffering were promptly forgotten. We disarmed to the extent that our Regular Army was hardly sufficient to protect the growing West from the Indians. The Regular Navy was denied the opportunity to take up any of the improvements in artillery and ship construction going on in other navies. When in foreign waters our wooden frigates, armed with out-of-date ordnance, floated alongside the iron ships of other countries armed with the most modern ordnance, which, had we been at war, they could have used to blow our wooden ships out of the water long before our ships could have gotten in range to fire in return. Once in range, our fire would have been useless against the foreigners' iron armor.

Folly of Unpreparedness

THERE is nothing advocated by the disarmament propagandist of to-day that was not said and written repeatedly in the decade prior to the recent World War. The same appeal to cowardice, through fear of weapons which could not be resisted or overcome by flesh and blood; through fear of the terrible losses which the civilian population inevitably would have to suffer, were dangled before our eyes.

Great Britain was armed on the sea, but virtually unarmed on land, having, like ourselves, a comparatively small Regular Army, backed up by a small citizen soldier force—the Territorials. Her sea armament not only saved her from invasion, but prevented the Germans from even planning it. Her lack of land armament encouraged the Germans to believe that they could overcome France, then turn on Russia, drive her out of the situation, thus making themselves masters of Europe and of the land routes to the heart of Asia.

No European who fought through the early anxious years of the war has any illusions as to how near the Germans came to accomplishing their purpose. The failure to be armed on land, in spite of the warnings of Lord Roberts and others, resulted of necessity in a period of nearly two years elapsing before Great Britain's man power was ready to strike with full force. This delay gave the Germans their opportunity to hold France with one hand, shove Russia back towards Asia and open up the Balkan route to Turkey and Asia. Despite the fact that the war steadily increased in ferocity and determination, steadily drew nation after nation into it, and steadily involved us in questions with no answer other than war, we failed to prepare.

No one able to face and understand facts can doubt that the whole course of Germany would have been different had the present National Defense act been in existence for fifteen years prior to the war, with the consequent ability which we would have had immediately to have brought the Regular Army to war strength; to have called out a trained and equipped National Guard of 400,000; to have placed upon the framework of trained officers and non-commissioned officers of twenty-seven Reserve Infantry, the six Reserve Cavalry divisions, and the Reserve army and army corps troops, the manhood of the country drafted into its service; all promptly equipped and continuously supplied by the industry of the country, immediately acting in accordance with the plans for industrial mobilization carefully worked out over this period of years.

Even the dullest brain can see the totally different course of events which would have happened had Great Britain in 1914 and the United States in 1917 been as helpless on sea, due to lack of armament, as they were on land.

Germans Knew Our Weakness

WE were not armed on land. The Germans knew it. They had the most profound respect for our resources in men and matériel but they knew it was potential strength which had to be translated; they knew that such translation takes time; they believed the time would be long enough to enable them to win anyhow. In other words that when we were ready it would be too late.

The men of the 3d, 28th and 42d American Infantry divisions, who held their ground under the German preparatory fire, starting soon after midnight the night of July 14-15, 1918, and embracing with its destruction the front from Chateau Thierry on the French-American left, to Rheims and then across the Champagne, almost to the Argonne forest; these men who received with the French the vigorous assaults of the German infantry, beginning with daybreak the morning of the 15th; who saw positions swept out of existence; who saw their last reserves used up; who heard the last barrages fired; who knew the prospect of bitter defeat; who lived moments which nothing in any previous or subsequent hard fighting engaged in by them equalled, will never forget that the German estimate of the situation was so nearly correct that they cannot help but believe that Divine Providence must have intervened to prevent the terrible disaster so imminent.

To every man who fought, Armistice Day, with its prayers for the dead; its decorations of their graves, must bring back thoughts of the comrades who had to pay with their lives and the life-long sorrow of their womenfolk for the mistakes inevitably made in combat when a determined people, utterly unprepared, goes to war.

Cowards Give Lie to History

SUCH thoughts can only be followed with fierce resentment to the impudence of men and women who bore none of the real burden of war, and who paid none of the real price, daring to use such a day to give the lie to history, to once more, in spite of the bitter lessons of the past, urge a course which inevitably will compel those who fought this time if they live, and if not their children, to pay largely, pay extravagantly, pay unnecessarily for the blindness of those who will not see.

In all this talk of peace, in all this effort to disarm us, the propagandists do not urge justice as the end for which we should strive. Fear of wounds, fear of suffering, fear of loss of property, fear of death are the motives which are to compel adherence to their program. That physical and moral cowardice bred by selfishness and materialism is the basis of their argument.

Such an appeal is an insult to the uninjured living now happily restored to their occupations and families, to the living still suffering from the wounds and diseases of war, and above all to the dead, to their wives and daughters, all loyal citizens of the United States, all strongly imbued with the belief that the cost of maintaining justice and right can never be too great, no matter what the demands in treasure and life, because without justice and right no treasure is worth having, and no life worth living.

"They could heal the hurt of my daughter Zion slightly, crying 'Peace, Peace,' when there is no peace."

Shortage of Commissioned Officers for Air Service

A COMPREHENSIVE study of the Air Service personnel problem is now being made in the War Department. That it is a serious problem is being recognized outside as well as inside the Air Service. The subject may go up to the Joint Army and Navy Board before a final conclusion is made in fixing the policy of not only the War but the Navy Department.

Secretary of War Weeks this week announced that the question of production has already been referred to the Joint Board. He expressed his opinion that the Joint Board must work out a plan by which the amount of duplications in production and repair work should be reduced to a minimum. He is not inclined in the least toward a united air force, recognizing the fact that they have different functions, but that where the Navy and Army joined at the coast defenses all duplication must be eliminated as far as possible without interfering with the efficiency of either of the Services. He went on to explain that the Joint Army and Navy Board was instructed to prepare plans for a ten-year program with an annual appropriation of $25,000,000 for the Army. Probably the same amount will be provided for the Navy.

This, naturally, brings up the personnel question. It is understood that attention has been called to the claim that the present personnel organization of the Air Services in the Army and Navy are quite expensive. Taking into consideration the strength of both Services, the Air personnel expenses, it is charged, are greatly in excess of those of any of the other great powers. An examination of the organization of other air forces, it is stated, brings out the fact that this is the only large power in which all the fliers are commissioned officers.

The percentage of the commissioned officers in the Air Service of the United States, it is claimed, is greatly in excess of that of the other air forces. For instance, the air force of the French army has more enlisted fliers than commissioned fliers. The flying personnel of the French army consists of 986 officers and 2,105 enlisted men. The non-flying force of the French air service consists of 247 officers and 29,403 enlisted men. For the administration of the French air service there are 153 officers and 162 enlisted men. The aggregate of the French army air service is 1,386 officers and 31,670 enlisted men, or a total of 33,056.

In support of the proposal to follow the organization of other air services, it is contended that the enlisted force of fliers could be kept up owing to the opportunities of learning to fly with a view to obtaining employment at the conclusion of the period of enlistment with commercial concerns. Such an arrangement would make it possible for young men with a limited education to acquire the professional knowledge of a flier by serving one term of enlistment in the Regular Army or Navy. This would create, it is estimated, a large reserve of fliers which would be available in the event of war without great expense to the government.

Of course, it is stated that the percentage of commissioned officers in the flying force would always be large, as in other armies and navies, but the claim is made that in order to obtain fliers and mechanics for the ground work of the Air Service it will be necessary to open these parts of the Service to enlisted men.

The study, it is stated, is being made on account of a demand from Congress and the Bureau of Budget for economy in the expenses of the Air Service. In all probability these suggestions, if submitted formally to Congress, will provoke considerable discussion.

Examination Next April for Commission in the Army

INSTRUCTIONS will shortly be sent out by the War Department to all the corps area commanders and post commanders for the examination of candidates for commissions in the Army, which will take place the week beginning April 14. It is estimated that at that time there will be about a hundred vacancies in the Regular Army after the next class from West Point has graduated.

At present there are 379 vacancies in the Regular Army and 407 cadets in the class that is to graduate in June. However, under the present prospects for retirements and resignations, the vacancies by June will reach a hundred in excess of the requirements of West Point.

Examinations will be conducted not only at Army posts in the United States, but in Hawaii, with the American Force in China, in the Philippines, and in the Panama Canal Zone.

Army Regulations No. 605-5 of March 10, 1923, will be followed. These regulations virtually confine the list of eligibles to the three components of the Army of the United States. Former officers of the Regular Army who resigned during the process of the recent reduction will be given a chance to come back into the Service as second lieutenants if their records are clear. This is the only exception that is not provided for in the regulations.

The regulations provide that second lieutenants may be appointed: First, from graduates of the United States Military Academy; second, from warrant officers and enlisted men of the Regular Army between the ages of twenty-one and thirty years, who have had at least two years' service; and, third, from Reserve officers, and from officers, warrant officers and enlisted men of the National Guard, members of the Enlisted Reserve Corps and graduates of technical institutions approved by the Secretary of War, all between the ages of twenty-one and thirty years.

Lt. L. F. Blodgett, U.S.N., Acquitted by G.C.M.

L. T. (J.G.) LAURENCE F. BLODGETT, U.S.N., the navigating officer of the destroyer Delphy, when she and six other destroyers were wrecked off Point Honda, Calif., Sept. 8, 1923, and who with a number of other officers on duty in the wrecked ships was ordered tried by G.C.M. at San Diego, has been found not guilty of the charges against him.

The charges against Lt. Blodgett were culpable inefficiency in the performance of duty, and through negligence suffering his vessel to run on the rocks. The news of his acquittal has been officially received at the Navy Department.

The trial of Capt. Edward H. Watson, commander of Squadron 11, Lt. Comdr. Donald T. Hunter, commander of the Delphy, on the same charges as those of Lt. Blodgett, have been concluded, but the verdict of the court has not been made public, at the time the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL went to press. The trial of Capt. Robert Morris on a charge of negligence, in suffering his vessel to run on the rocks, is still in progress.

Regulating Change of Station by Automobile

THE Adjutant General of the Army, under date of Nov. 3, 1923, sent out a letter to corps area commanders, relative to officers changing station by automobile. The letter in substance says:

1. Apparently, the impression prevails among many officers that in changing station they may travel by automobile on Government time. This impression is erroneous.
2. Existing regulations require that officers shall travel by the shortest usually traveled route. Such a route is by rail.
3. Should an officer desire to change station by automobile he must travel on his own time and he therefore must secure in advance a leave of absence to cover the period of travel by automobile in excess of the time allowed by rail.
4. Since many officers do not appear to be familiar with existing regulations their attention should be invited to this matter.

Personals

Maj. Gen. George O. Squier, Chief Signal Officer of the Army, who was granted a month's leave last week, will spend most of his leave in New York on private business. During his leave the general will appear as plaintiff in a suit against the A. T. and T. Company before the United States Court of the southern jurisdiction of New York. It is alleged that the telephone company has infringed upon certain patents belonging to Gen. Squier involving wired wireless.

Mrs. Geiger, wife of Maj. Harold Geiger, U.S.A., military air attaché to the American Embassy, Berlin, Germany, who has been the guest of Mrs. Ella Van Horn Foulis for the past two months at the Ontario, Washington, D.C., will sail Nov. 29 to join Maj. Geiger in Berlin. Mrs. Geiger and Mrs. Foulis will leave for New York about Nov. 20 to visit Maj. and Mrs. Henry J. Weeks at Fort Totten, N.Y., who will entertain with a house party in their honor, taking the guests to the Army and Navy game.

Adm. Edward W. Eberle, U.S.N., attended the banquet in connection with the marine exhibition held in New York and has since returned to Washington.

Rear Adm. Charles P. Plunkett, U.S.N., will review the 9th Coast Defense Command, N.Y.N.G., Col. John J. Byrne, in the armory, 125 West 14th street, New York city, Nov. 30.

Col. Franklin Q. Brown, president of the Army and Navy Club of America, whose clubhouse is in New York city, was created an officer of the Order of the Crown of Italy by Col. the Marquis di Bernizzo, military attaché of the Royal Italian Embassy, honorary aide-de-camp to the King of Italy, on Nov. 12 at a dinner at the Metropolitan Club, in New York city. The honor was conferred in appreciation of Col. Brown's services to Italy and the Italian people in the United States and abroad during the World War.

"W. N. Mitchell, general Southern agent of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, long a resident of Atlanta," says the Atlanta Georgian of Nov. 6, 1923, "has been named by the national headquarters an honorary aide-de-camp to the commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Gen. Lloyd M. Brett. Mr. Mitchell, shortly after the armistice, was named an honorary member of the association of veterans and has rendered splendid service to the cause since then. His promotion 'in line of duty' is richly deserved and highly complimentary."

Maj. G. A. Taylor, F.A., U.S.A., who recently transferred from the Coast Artillery and is on duty at Providence, R.I., served in France as lieutenant colonel, 312th F.A., and as colonel, 128th F.A., 35th Division, a horse-drawn .75 regiment from St. Louis, Mo. After the return of his regiment he relieved Gen. Downey as D.Q.M. at Montierchaume, where he salvaged the harness and wagon transport of the combat divisions. Later he commanded the northern area of the G.R.S., making his headquarters with Mrs. Taylor, in the Argonne Cemetery, at Romagne-sous-Montfaucon.

Mrs. W. J. Blythe, wife of Warrant Officer Blythe, U.S.A., entertained at Key West on Nov. 2 for Mrs. Robert Russell. Mrs. E. Barclay Wharton, Mrs. James Adams and Miss Ella Lee Hackman assisted Mrs. Blythe to entertain. Mr. and Mrs. Blythe's guests were Mrs. Virginia Heckler, Mrs. James Adams, Capt. and Mrs. E. B. Wharton, Mayor and Mrs. Frank H. Ladd, Mr. and Mrs. William Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wolkowsky, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Leach, jr., Miss Ella Lee Hackman, Robert Russell and L. Russell Warner.

Rear Adm. John K. Robison, U.S.N., who was among the guests of the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers at their annual banquet at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York city, Nov. 9, made some instructive remarks on engineering problems of the day, and the policy of the Navy with regard to the Merchant Marine and on the advantages of maintaining an adequate Navy. He pointed out, among other things, if there were no Navy there would be no Merchant Marine. Towards the close of his speech Adm. Robison said: "This nation of ours cannot be free from the danger of attack, open or covert, on the part of any oligarchy, monarch, or class government. There is but one thing that protects our nation from this attack—it is the nation's Navy. To serve in that Navy is an honor. Being an officer in it—a builder of better Americans, a defender of the flag, a supporter of the interests of humanity the world over—furnishes what I believe to be an honorable career. I am not ashamed of the livery that I wear."

The 9th Regiment, Coast Artillery, N.Y.N.G., under Col. John J. Byrne, celebrated the fifth anniversary of Armistice Day on the evening of Nov. 12 by a march-out. They passed in review before the Allied military attachés at the Army and Navy Club of America in New York city. The band of the regiment, after the review, gave a concert in the lobby of the club. Maj. Gen. Robert L. Bullard, U.S.A., commanding 2d Corps Area, took command of the regiment at this point, and led it down Fifth avenue, and over to Times Square, where the regiment passed in review. "This is said to be the first occasion that a major general ever commanded a regiment. Along the line of march there was continuous illumination of red fire. The regiment paraded in trench helmets and with bayonets fixed. Upon the return of the regiment to the armory, a review was given for the officers and men of the 57th Regiment, Coast Artillery, to which the 9th was merged during the war. The regiment is showing continually increasing efficiency, and its present strength is above the requirements of the Federal Government.

Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, U.S.M.C., was entertained by the Reading Sector of the Association of the Army of the United States in the Berkshire at Reading, Pa., Nov. 5, which was largely attended by officers of the Regular Army, National Guard Officers' Reserve Corps and society people. The arrangements were in charge of the secretary and treasurer of the Association, Lt. Gerald F. Gilbert, and were splendidly carried out. Capt. Whitney B. Sanders acted as toastmaster at the elaborate dinner. Councilman D. Elmer Dampman was the first speaker on the program and made suitable remarks about the city, about the Army of the United States and especially about the Marine Corps, which he characterized as the most splendid section of Uncle Sam's fighting strength. Mayor John K. Stauffer welcomed the guest of honor, Gen. Butler, to the city of Reading and told him that the city offers hospitality such as no other city in the land has to give. Gen. Butler was the third and last speaker and vividly and graphically illustrated the important part taken by the Marine Corps in the World War. He told what the Pennsylvanians of the U.S. Army had done, and highly eulogized their heroic efforts in stemming the tide of what apparently looked like Germany's victory. Lt. Terrill E. Price, U.S.A., A.D.C. to Maj. Gen. C. H. Muir, U.S.A., commanding the 3d Corps Area, was present at the dinner-dance as the official representative of the general. Among those present, in addition to those named above, were Maj. Abner Bauschner of Reading, Capt. Robert M. Cosnell, Lt. Albert H. Early, Lt. William A. Fassnacht, Lt. and Mrs. Gerald F. Gilbert, Lt. and Mrs. Earl Hickman, Lt. and Mrs. Harry G. Raudenbush, Lt. Earl E. Romberger, Capt. Harry B. Roshon, Lt. and Mrs. Whitney B. Sanders, Lt. James W. Smeck, Lt. and Mrs. Byron W. Schwartz, Lt. and Mrs. W. B. Thamm, Lt. George C. Wynkoop, 3d, Lt. Peter F. Warker and Lt. L. O. Yost.

Army Notes

THE 49th and 50th Regiments of Field Artillery and the 17th Trench Mortar Battery (formerly 306th Cavalry, disbanded at Fort Sill, Okla., on February, 1919), are reconstituted and consolidated with the 306th Cavalry, Organized Reserves.

ON the occasion of the laying of the corner stone of the George Washington Masonic memorial at Alexandria, Va., on Nov. 1, the portable No. 2 Loud Speaker was installed by the Signal Corps, U.S.A. Three microphones were used, and two groups of horns, one of four and the other of three were so placed as to cover the large area, which made the ceremony audible to probably 25,000 listeners when those officiating would recognize the fact that the microphone was there and delivered their talks within the operating distance of the set.

A NEW device, called the stroboscope, perfected by the Ordnance Department, will be incorporated in the construction of the next tank. The stroboscope is a small armored turret revolving at a high rate of speed and slitted which gives the observer an unobstructed view in all directions. This is made necessary because a tank observer has to have some means of observation in all directions and at the same time be protected from fire. The Ordnance Department has perfected a good working model of this device and they will in all probability have one mounted as part of the next tank which will be built.

Navy Notes

THE U.S. Navy base at Constantinople has been abandoned and the Bridge and Denebola are to bring the material home. It should arrive in the United States early in December, the exact date not yet known. The name of the naval detachment in Turkish waters has been changed to the U.S. Naval Detachment, Eastern Mediterranean.

THE U.S. Concord's home yard is now Philadelphia. The Detroit is going back to Philadelphia and will have her trials early in January. It is expected to have both the Detroit and Richmond, whose trials will be this month, join the Fleet for the maneuvers. In answer to a question as to how many scout cruisers will be with the Fleet for the winter maneuvers, Adm. Jackson, Bureau of Naval Operations, stated that there would probably be four of them—the Omaha, Milwaukee, Richmond and Detroit.

THE graduation exercises of the seventh class of the U.S. Navy Supply Corps School of Application were held on Nov. 14. Adm. E. W. Eberle, Chief of Naval Operations made the address and delivered the diplomas. The following officers of the Supply Corps were graduated: Lts. Ralph J. Dindot, Arthur M. Bryan, Alex Riggins, Percy W. COAST GUARD NOTES.

The resignation of Btsn. (L) J. D. Tuttle of Oak Island Beach Station has been accepted.
Btsn. (L) M. W. Etheridge, retired, died on Oct. 24, 1923.
The cutter Algonquin will soon arrive at Seattle, Wash., after a cruise of 18,000 miles, throughout Southern Alaska, as far West as Attu Island, in the Aleutian group, and as far North as the Arctic Circle. During the seven months she visited nearly every seaport of Alaska. The efficiency of the radio apparatus on the Algonquin was demonstrated when she was off Cape Espenberg, on the Arctic Circle, and talked with the Navy Radio Station at Sitka, Alaska, a distance of more than 2,500 miles.

NAVAL ACADEMY.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 14, 1923.

Mrs. Henry B. Wilson, wife of the Superintendent, following her usual custom of holding a reception on the first Wednesday of each month, entertained at her home. Mrs. Bowers, wife of Cdr. Bowers, and Mrs. Duncan, wife of Capt. Paul B. Duncan, presided at the tea table and Mrs. Howard Morton served ices. Wives of the officers belonging to the staff of Admiral Wilson and a number of young ladies assisted.

Capt. and Mrs. Thomas R. Kurtz entertained at a dinner last Wednesday for Cdr. and Mrs. John T. Bowers, Cdr. and Mrs. George S. Bryan, Lt. Cdr. and Mrs. Frank Singluff, Dr. and Mrs. William P. Mull, Lt. and Mrs. Perry, Mrs. Douglas Howard and Cdr. Paul J. Dashiell.

Ens. and Mrs. Wendall S. Taylor, who have been spending two weeks at Annapolis, went to Baltimore for the Fleet-Army football game, and then to New York, so that Ens. Taylor could join his ship, the U.S.S. Arkansas. Mrs. Taylor is now in Wilmington, Del., visiting her parents. Ens. Taylor, who was last year's All-American end, played in the Navy Fleet football game.

Ens. and Mrs. Henry G. Williams spent the past week-end in Annapolis. Ens. Williams has a brother in the First Class at the Naval Academy. Cdr. George J. Duck was down from Baltimore to visit friends in Annapolis.

Rear Adm. and Mrs. William F. Fullam and their daughter, Mrs. Emory Sands, have moved into their new residence, 1713 Eighteenth street, Washington, D.C. Adm. and Mrs. Fullam are frequent visitors at Annapolis. The Misses Harriet and Aroostine Scales attended the Fleet-Army football game in Baltimore on Saturday and then came to Annapolis to spend the week-end with their uncle, Prof. and Mrs. Carroll Storrs Alden of Wardour. Others from Annapolis who attended this game in Baltimore included Capt. and Mrs. Rufus Zogbaum and Lt. Cdr. and Mrs. A. M. R. Allen.

Rear Adm. and Mrs. Henry B. Wilson attended the football game played in Baltimore on Saturday between Hill School and Gilman. Henry B. Wilson, jr., is a student at Hill School. Lt. Cdr. J. W. Reeves, jr., and Mrs. Reeves spent the week-end at Carvel Hall. Mrs. Reeves is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Hutchinson of Baltimore, who are stopping at Carvel Hall for the winter.

Mrs. Tisdale, wife of Lt. Cdr. Mahlon S. Tisdale, and Mdsn.-Cdr. Hart received on Saturday at the midshipmen's hop for the First and Second Classes and their guests. Mrs. Richardson, wife of Lt. Cdr. William N. Richardson, entertained at a small tea for a number of midshipmen and their friends Sunday.

FORT SAM HOUSTON.

Fort Sam Houston, Texas, Oct. 28, 1923.

The Army and Civilian Club held a meeting Oct. 15 to plan for the first session of the club. Among the notable speakers of the day were Mrs. Eager, who spoke of the Cadina de Amour (chain of love). It was most interesting to hear the history of how the vine came to San Antonio. Mrs. Paul Malone spoke of the advantages Army women of to-day had over Army wives of the past, and how delighted Army wives of the past were to follow their husbands in keeping up with the Stars and Stripes and in many instances preceding its planting. The Army wife in the beginning of the occupancy of the Philippine Islands by the United States Army was referred to when all water had to be hauled, then filtered through sand, then through charcoal, and again boiled, while now all the labor required is to turn on a faucet. The days of the tent life on the border were referred to, but the Army wife always found much to do. Some perfected themselves in Spanish, along with the home duties and all the pleasures that came with living in the open. Hunting for game in those days was one of the greatest of pleasures.

Mrs. Mary Jordan Cresson left Oct. 27 for Omaha, Neb., where she will be joined by Frances Nash and Rosa Ponselle, both of whom will return to be her house guests.

Maj. and Mrs. Gordon Rives Catts and son, who have been guests of Mrs. Catts's parents, Gen. and Mrs. W. Shirley Scott, are now located in quarters in camp Travis. Col. and Mrs. Oliver P. M. Hazzard, who have recently

This organization is making an offer which should be very attractive to Officers of the Army. It is a vehicle for making an annual saving, and also provides an opportunity to arrange for an ideal home after retirement, or whenever you desire to separate from the Service for any other cause. We have already interested several Officers.

Our plan is, briefly: To sell lands in the Indian River section, which are most suitable for citrus culture, upon which the principal payment is not due for fifteen years, this in order that the purchaser may use his available cash for development, and only be required to pay for his land after it reaches the productive stage. We will be happy to furnish the fullest data and details to those interested.

By Raymond V. Sykes.

Sentiment in speculative quarters continues to be of an optimistic tone. The entire country looks to Wall street more or less directly for its cue as to future conditions and the improvement there may very well be reflected by the development of more confidence on the part of business men elsewhere. Actually, there has been no such sharp reversal in business conditions from uncertainty to assurance as the change in the stock market would seem to indicate. It is quite possible, however, that the stock market of two or three weeks ago was decidedly over-pessimistic in its interpretation of fundamental conditions and has simply recovered its mental equilibrium.

Reduction of Federal Taxes.

One of the most important developments that has taken place in a considerable length of time in its possible effect on future trend of business is the plan of Secretary Mellon for sweeping tax reductions. The scheme, as outlined in the daily newspapers, provides for the reduction of sur-taxes in the higher brackets. Instead of those who have a large annual income being forced to give up over 50 per cent. of it to the Government, the maximum tax will be reduced to 25 per cent.

The result will be to release large sums now invested in tax-exempt securities for productive enterprises. It will also stimulate corporate enterprises which now cannot expand under the ruling corporation tax schedule. The revenues accruing to the Government will probably not only show no decrease but an actual increase under the plan, as the present high tax rates defeat their own purpose.

The Secretary's plan also embraces the elimination of present small taxes on amusements, jewelry, luxuries, etc. It is expected that advocates of the soldiers' bonus will see in the plan the possibility of defeat and consequently oppose such reductions. However, if the bonus must be, other means of procuring the necessary funds might be devised. Business leaders are heartily in favor of lower tax rates on income, for, it is believed, the effect on the country would be extremely beneficial.

General Business Favorable.

Day to day developments are, on the whole, of a rather favorable nature. Freight car loadings are holding up pretty well, although the volume that should have been developed at this season of the year is higher than that which actually has materialized.

Building construction has taken on a new lease of life. Permits issued in 134 cities in October totaled $188,000,000, against $150,000,000 in the same cities in September, and $143,000,000 in October last year.

The copper market is developing some strength after a long period of inaction. October exports are estimated at 210,000,000 pounds, the highest this year.

The oil situation remains unchanged. The excess production in California was being well absorbed when the new Powell field in Texas was developed and the balance has again been upset. The Crescent Pipe Line Company, one of the old Standard Oil subsidiaries, has passed its dividend. This is the first of the old Standard Pipe Line companies to pass its dividend. The Ohio Oil Company has reduced its quarterly dividend from 50 cents to 25 cents a share.

Selection of Preferred Stocks.

There are a number of preferred stocks that invites consideration for investment and appreciation at this time. While the outlook generally invites confidence, care should be exercised in making selections. The six following preferred stocks are earning their dividends and are likely to continue so doing. If the tax reductions referred to above become effective, all securities where the return is limited are likely to respond substantially in the market. In buying stocks such as the following it is better to distribute the risk throughout the list, instead of concentrating on one issue. The stocks are:

American Ice.....	6%	80	7.50%
American Sugar....	7	94	7.40
American Wool.....	7	100	7.00

A chorus club has been organized among the ladies on the post. Mrs. W. O. Jeffords was elected president and chorus leader.

BATTERY PARK.

Battery Park, Md., Nov. 8, 1923.

Activities in this Service colony near Washington include the following:

Mr. and Mrs. F. Gaskins have left for their home in Kingston, Ontario, after a two weeks' visit with Col. and Mrs. E. T. Hartnett. Mrs. Hartnett is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gaskins.

Col. R. W. Bryan of Fort Crook, Neb., is the guest of Col. and Mrs. J. I. Gilbreth. Mrs. I. A. Bodine of New York is visiting Col. and Mrs. F. C. Jewell.

Col. and Mrs. F. C. Jewell have recently occupied their spacious New York Colonial home on Ridge road. Col. and Mrs. J. H. Reeves are now living in their new home on Ridge road.

Col. C. A. Hedekin and family are occupying their New England Colonial home, recently erected here. Capt. and Mrs. P. H. Mallory are now at home to their friends in their attractive Dutch Colonial house on Ridge road.

PRESIDIO OF MONTEREY.

Presidio of Monterey, Calif., Nov. 5, 1923.

Mrs. Willard G. Wyman, wife of Lt. Wyman, who has been spending the past three months visiting her parents in the East, has returned to the post.

Mrs. Burton Andrus, wife of Capt. Andrus, has just returned to the post after having spent two months with her mother in New York city. One of the most picturesque dances ever given at the Officers' Club was held on Halloween eve. The entire lower floor of the club was made over into one long, dark passage, through which the guests were obliged to pass in order to reach the ball room, which was most artistically decorated with yellow and black crepe paper and numerous cleverly cut pumpkins.

Col. Herbert J. Brees entertained at dinner, prior to the Halloween hop, laid for Maj. and Mrs. Waldo C. Potter, Maj. and Mrs. Clarke P. Chandler, Capt. and Mrs. John T. Pierce and Mrs. Walker of New York.

Mrs. Clarke P. Chandler, wife of Maj. Chandler, is in the Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco, after having undergone a very serious operation. Mrs. Charles Hazeltine, wife of Maj. Hazeltine, has just arrived on the post from Michigan, where she has been for the past several months. Lt. and Mrs. Jefferson Campbell left Sunday by motor for Southern California, where they will spend the coming two months.

Lt. Leon V. Chaplin and his bride, who before her marriage was Miss Anne G. Canlett of Brookline, Mass., arrived on the post Monday.

GOVERNORS ISLAND.

Governors Island, N.Y.H., Nov. 12, 1923.

Col. and Mrs. Gerhardt entertained the officers and ladies of the 16th Infantry and the Fort Jay garrison on Nov. 9. Mrs. Gerhardt was assisted in receiving by Mmes. Wyche, Moore and Le Gette. The quarters were beautifully decorated with autumn leaves and chrysanthemums and the music for the dancing which took place during the evening was excellently rendered by the 16th Infantry regimental orchestra. An unusual and pleasant feature of the occasion was the manner of receiving the guests, which was that as officers and ladies were welcomed by the host and hostess they were added to the receiving line and in turn received the arrivals so that everyone greeted everyone else, which gave the occasion the feeling and flavor of an "old Army" social evening.

The troops of the 16th Infantry were fully occupied with various ceremonies in connection with the celebration of Armistice Day, being on parade duty on Saturday, Sunday and Monday, on the latter day parading in Newark and on the former days in New York. On Sunday afternoon the day was observed by a military service in St. Cornelius's Chapel on Governors Island. The troops were present, with band, together with many persons from the garrison.

FORT SHAFTER.

Chambers, M. C. Bristol, D. C. McRitchie, H. L. Conner, W. G. Dow, Rene de Russy, Norman McNeill, S. A. Wood, P. W. Cole, J. T. Meagher, L. S. Arnold, Victor Anderson, Leonard Crews, P. H. Wieland, H. S. Johnson, Louis Milne, W. C. Braly, E. A. Rudelius, R. D. Wolff, Misses Claire de Russy, Lydia Barrette and Lois Shreiner.

Mrs. Patrick W. Guiney gave a bridge luncheon on Wednesday in honor of Mrs. Laurence C. Brown. The guests were Mmes. M. C. Bristol, Harry Stark, A. S. Cowan, R. P. Reeder, W. H. Chambers and L. D. Osborne.

Col. and Mrs. William F. Hase have as their house guest Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Newman, who plan to be here about a month. Mr. Newman is Mrs. Hase's brother. Mrs. E. Blanchard entertained Thursday at dinner for Maj. Louis Wilson and his mother, Mrs. Wilson.

Maj. and Mrs. T. L. Long entertained Saturday with a bridge party for Lt. Cdr. and Mrs. D. I. Hedrick, Mr. and Mrs. Watson, Col. and Mrs. W. H. Chambers, Col. E. R. Shreiner, Maj. and Mmes. H. L. Connor, Seymour Schwartz, Miss Lois Shreiner, Capt. and Mmes. J. C. Dye, W. L. Thompson, L. A. Milne, B. W. Johnson and J. L. Meagher.

Mrs. George W. Brent was a bridge hostess Friday for Mmes. R. E. Wyllie, W. F. Marquat, C. L. Hoppough, R. T. Barrett, R. M. Butler, William Webb, J. L. Hogan, Charles Perfect, J. L. Walters, C. R. Finley, S. E. Willard, L. R. Crews, H. W. Kiefer, Charles Brice, J. L. Hanley and K. D. Barnett.

There was a meeting of the Army Relief at the quarters of Mrs. J. D. Barrette on Monday. Attending the meeting were Mmes. C. P. Summerall, W. F. Hase, R. E. Wyllie, L. C. Brown, W. K. Wilson, M. C. Bristol, L. C. Wilson, A. L. Fuller and W. L. Clay.

Miss Julia Reeder entertained with a supper on Saturday in honor of Miss Sally Miley. Col. and Mrs. Patrick W. Guiney were dinner hosts Wednesday for Maj. and Mrs. M. B. Willette, Maj. and Mrs. Meade Wildrick, Miss Sally Miley and Capt. George R. Ford. Mrs. Matt C. Bristol gave a luncheon at the Country Club on Friday in honor of Mrs. L. C. Brown.

Miss Sally Miley was weekend guest of Col. and Mrs. Howard L. Laubach of Schofield Barracks. Mrs. C. P. Summerall entertained the Fort Shafter Bridge Club on Thursday. Lt. Col. and Mrs. Harry T. Matthews, formerly at Fort Ruger, have taken an apartment at the Pleasanton Hotel.

Lt. Col. and Mrs. William H. Wilson entertained Friday with a dinner for Col. Gordon C. Heiner, Col. and Mrs. Hawthorne, Col. and Mrs. Matthews, Mrs. Houston and Maj. and Mrs. Harry Stark.

Billy Clay, son of Maj. and Mrs. Wallace L. Clay, celebrated his sixth birthday anniversary last Saturday with a party for about twenty children.

FORT THOMAS.

Fort Thomas, Ky., Nov. 5, 1923.

The ladies of the Headquarters group were hostesses at the regular weekly tea given last Sunday. Mrs. J. M. White poured, Mrs. C. D. Lewis presided at the salad dish, while Mmes. J. D. Bender and F. S. Byerly and Misses Billie Byerly and Pearl Larner served the guests. Ladies who were responsible for the arrangements for the very lovely tea Sunday were Mmes. H. C. Greenleaf, O. A. Newhouse, M. A. Gillis, F. S. Byerly, J. T. MacKenzie, H. C. Brown, P. W. Beebe, P. E. Tripp and C. C. McNary.

Mrs. J. F. Gohn, whose condition has improved sufficiently for her to be taken home from the hospital, will soon resume her duties in the social life of the post after a long period of illness.

Capt. and Mrs. Price W. Beebe are visiting the latter's sister in Dayton this week. Maj. and Mrs. Omar A. Newhouse had as guests at luncheon Col. George H. Scott and Capt. and Mrs. H. C. Brown.

An informal tea was given by the ladies of the first battalion last Sunday for the officers and ladies of the garrison. Mrs. Omar A. Newhouse and Mrs. M. A. Gillis poured tea and coffee, while Mmes. Price W. Beebe, G. T. McKenzie, E. S. Beall and F. S. Byerly served sandwiches, cakes and nuts. Mrs. C. D. Lewis, in charge of arrangements, was assisted by Mmes. A. Tabaknic, C. H. Sears, F. S. Doll, R. S. Gessford and C. R. Farmer.

Col. H. C. Greenleaf left last Monday on one month's sick leave. Lt. L. E. Romer, who has been visiting friends and relatives in the East for ten days, returned to the post.

Capt. and Mrs. William M. Larner returned to the post last Monday after an absence of about four months spent on leave in California, New York and other places.

Mrs. J. M. McMillan entertained Capt. H. W. James and Lt. Irwin Howard at dinner last Sunday. Mrs. H. W. James left last Saturday for Chicago to visit relatives and friends at that place. Mrs. James's mother, Mrs. Martin Wagner, will return with her to Fort Thomas.

Lt. and Mrs. James D. Bender entertained at dinner last Sunday for Lt. and Mrs. R. S. Gessford and the latter's mother, father and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Jones from Louisville and daughter Frances. Mr. Jones has a number of horses entered in the Latonia races, and Miss Frances spent the week-end with her sister.

13TH CAVALRY NOTES.

Fort D. A. Russell, Wyo., Oct. 30, 1923.

The 13th Cavalry observed regimental day at Fort D. A. Russell Oct. 8, its twenty-second birthday anniversary. The exercises were held in the post riding hall. Col. John J. Boniface, regimental commander, presided and introduced the speakers, Gen. John M. Jenkins, post commandant; Lt. Col. Alden F. Brewster, O.O., 76th F.A.; Capt. Ira A. Correll, 13th Cav., post adjutant, regimental history; Mr. Runkle, governor of National Soldiers' Home, Dayton, Ohio, and Chaplain Francis F. Donnelly, 13th Cav., benediction. The festivities took the form of a carnival, and a picnic lunch was served. There were four boxing bouts, greased wrestling, cracker-eating contest, rooster fight, rescue race, one hundred-yard dash backwards, and numerous side shows, containing the freaks and curiosities.

The Non-commissioned Officers' Club on Oct. 15 held an entertainment at its club house, the invited guests being Brig. Gen. John M. Jenkins, commanding general; Col. John J. Boniface, 13th Cav.; Lt. Col. Alden F. Brewster, 76th F.A., and the members of the 13th Cavalry who had won contests at the Frontier Day celebration. Fourteen cups were presented to the winners of the different military contests, after which a luncheon was served. The officers of the club are: President, Regt. Sergt. Maj. Grady; vice president, Regt. Supply Sergt. William Swanberg; financial secretary and treasurer, 1st Sergt. Francis A. Cole; and secretary, Sergt. Duffy.

Brig. Gen. John M. Jenkins, accompanied by Col. John J. Boniface, attended the luncheon of the Kiwanis Club Oct. 11. He gave a most impressive address on "preparedness," which was received with great enthusiasm. Gen. Jenkins on Oct. 17 attended the luncheon of the Rotary Club and delivered an address on the same subject.

SEVENTH CAVALRY NOTES.

Fort Bliss, Texas, Nov. 8, 1923.

The regiment on Oct. 19 returned to Fort Bliss after having been in the field since Sept. 15, when the regiment took the field to participate in the divisional maneuvers of the 1st Cavalry Division in the Big Bend country south of Marfa, Texas. After an eight-day march the 7th Cavalry as part of the 2d Cavalry Brigade (Brown Forces), under command of Brig. Gen. Joseph C. Castner, entered the maneuver area, where ensued a five-day, two-sided maneuver between the 1st Cavalry Brigade (White forces), Col. Walter C. Short commanding, and the 2d Cavalry Brigade (Brown forces), Gen. Joseph C. Castner commanding, and Maj. Gen. Robert L. Howze, chief umpire pro tem.

The sixth day constituted a concentration march on Alamito, Texas, by the whole division. There the troops rested one day, after which the division as a whole, under the command of Maj. Gen. Robert L. Howze, engaged in a one-sided maneuver for three days, and then marched into Camp Marfa, Marfa, Texas. There the division remained for a rest and recreation period from Oct. 4 to 9, during which time each day was devoted to competitive games and events, such as baseball, polo, prizefights, horse races, steeple chase and horse show. In each event there were entries from every unit of the division. In some events there were civilian entries also. A brilliant feature was the review of the whole Cavalry Division by Maj. Gen. Howze and distinguished visitors on Oct. 5. Civilians in large numbers came for miles to witness this spectacle. Brilliant social events during the visit of the troops included the banquet tendered Gen. Howze and his staff, officers of the division and the distinguished visitors from Washington by the citizens of Marfa, and the reception and dinner-dance given by Gen. Howze and his staff complimenting the civilians and prominent citizens of Marfa.

Maj. Gen. E. M. Lewis, commander of the 8th Corps Area, was highly pleased with the results of the maneuver, and complimented Maj. Gen. Robert L. Howze, commander of the 1st Cavalry Division, and all unit commanders.

The 7th Cavalry C.O., Col. Fitzhugh Lee, received much praise from Gen. Howze, division commander, and Gen. Castner, commander of the 2d Cavalry Brigade. Maj. Stephen W. Winfree, commanding 2d Squadron, and Howell M. Estes, commanding 1st Squadron, received letters of commendation from Gen. Castner.

In the last few weeks the regiment has suffered the loss of four officers—Lt. Col. Frank T. McNary, Capt. Jacob Blankenship and 1st Lt. Charles Martin—who go to the Organized Reserve for duty, and 1st Lt. Tom B. Miller, who soon leaves for the Philippines for duty. Lt. Col. R. B. Going recently joined the regiment.

PORTSMOUTH NAVY YARD.

Portsmouth, N.H., Nov. 5, 1923.

The masquerade Hallowe'en party on Oct. 31 for the officers and their families proved most enjoyable. The decorations and costumes were elaborate and unique, and there were many interesting features. Fully 150 were in attendance. The naval orchestra furnished music. The prize dance decided the most novel costumes, and the ladies' favor was awarded to Mrs. C. T. Owens as the negro mammy. Lts. E. E. Brady, Thornberg, Calnan and Page were considered to have the best masquerade costumes among the gentlemen. The dance committee was Cdr. Robert E. Hoyt, chairman, assisted by Mrs. C. T. Owens, Mrs. Arthur Warfield, Mrs. Crosby, Cdr. Hilliard, Lts. Maxwell, Thornberg and Calnan. The contests included a needle-threading race for grown-ups as well as children, a calculation dance, a nail contest, a potato race, and other fun-making games. An egg-blowing contest, in which the officers holding the rank of commander and above were the participants, created much merriment, and Cdr. Robert E. Hoyt won. Mrs. Dismukes, wife of Capt. Douglas E. Dismukes, commandant of the navy yard, acted as judge in the contests.

Mrs. Douglas E. Dismukes gave a dinner to a number of guests on Sunday evening.

The Ladies' Card Club met to-day with Mrs. Hilliard. Lt. and Mrs. Sparrow have taken up their residence in the quarters vacated by Cdr. Kintner at the navy yard.

FORT PORTER.

Martin of Brackettville. Capt. A. J. Wynne has gone to El Paso, where he will join Mrs. Wynne and spend two months' leave.

Mrs. Charles H. Unger, little Miss Catherine Unger and Mrs. Cox left on Nov. 1 for Dallas, Texas. Mrs. Unger will be in Dallas until the first of the year, when she will join Capt. Unger in Eau Claire, Wis., where Capt. Unger has a National Guard detail.

FORT DOUGLAS.

Fort Douglas, Utah, Nov. 8, 1923.

Capt. and Mrs. Parley D. Parkinson, who were married in Oklahoma recently, spent a week in Salt Lake on their honeymoon trip and were entertained at numerous affairs during their stay. They were guests of Capt. Parkinson's mother during their stay, and among those who entertained for them were Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Young (Mrs. Young is a sister of the groom), Mr. and Mrs. Creed Haymond, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rolapp and Mr. and Mrs. Preston Nibley, all of whom entertained at elaborate dinners at different times during their stay. Then they were special guests at a dinner-dance at the Country Club, at which a large number of friends were present. They left later for a trip to California, and will return by the southern route.

Two delightful events enlivened the latter part of October at the post—a hop given by the Association of the Army on Oct. 26, and another by the officers and ladies of the post on Oct. 31. At the former the guests were received by Brig. Gen. U. G. McAlexander, Col. and Mrs. Frederick L. Knudsen, Maj. and Mrs. Carl A. Badger and Lt. and Mrs. David Barrett.

The first regular monthly hop, Oct. 31, was a real Halloween affair. Col. C. J. Bartlett was in charge, and he and Mrs. Bartlett, Col. and Mrs. Knudsen and Gen. McAlexander received. The supper committee consisted of Mrs. Gustav J. Gonser, J. E. Nelson and Thomas J. McDonald. There were 200 guests.

Preceding the hop given by the Association of the Army Maj. and Mrs. George H. Smith entertained at a dinner at the Alta Club, at which Col. Thomas M. Anderson, new chief of staff, 104th Division, was guest of honor.

Lt. and Mrs. Robert H. Soule entertained at supper Oct. 28 for Capt. and Mrs. John Mulkay, Lt. and Mrs. David Barrett, Mrs. Don Coray, Mrs. Elizabeth Hoffman and Miss Dorothy White.

Maj. and Mrs. Allan S. Boyd entertained at dinner for Col. and Mrs. Fredrik L. Knudsen, Maj. and Mrs. Samuel C. Gurney, Maj. and Mrs. C. J. Gonser and Capt. and Mrs. Roy L. Schuyler Oct. 31. Mrs. E. E. Tabacott entertained at a tea Nov. 1 for a score of her friends, who enjoyed bridge and mah jong. The hostess was assisted by Miss Winifred Gurney.

Maj. and Mrs. S. C. Gurney entertained a number of the young friends of their small son at a Halloween party on Oct. 26.

Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines arrived in the city of his birth on a hurried return trip to Washington in connection with his investigation of the Veterans' Bureau, and spent what time he had with his mother, Mrs. Hines.

Capt. and Mrs. Roy L. Schuyler were best man and matron of honor, respectively, at the wedding last month of Mrs. Schuyler's sister, Miss Afton McDonald, and Robert Mallory Lawson.

Mrs. Robert H. Allen, wife of Col. Allen, who has spent the summer in Salt Lake, has returned to her home at Camp Perry. Capt. and Mrs. John Mulkay have been added to the new people at the post, having arrived from Fort D. A. Russell, and are settled in No. 16. Mrs. Gonser, wife of Maj. Gonser, has arrived to join him, and they are at home now in No. 22.

Capt. and Mrs. Otto J. Langtry, who have been on a motor trip to California, are expected back shortly, but it will be to prepare for change of station, as orders have come for them to leave.

Questions and Answers

Questions having to do with military or naval matters will be answered in this department as soon as possible after their receipt. Communications must in all cases be signed, giving the correct name and address of the inquirer.

W. F. W.—Only service between January and June, 1918, falls within the scope of the recent decision of the Comptroller General, which allows to enlisted men who attended the training camps for appointment to commission $100 per month instead of the pay of their enlisted grade. If qualified apply to the General Accounting Office, War Department, through the channel.

F. R. K.—As stated in this paper on page 246, Nov. 10, the training camp pay question recently reconsidered by the Comptroller General gives to enlisted men who were in training for commission in the camps between January and June, 1918, the pay of $100 instead of pay of enlisted grade. Claims should be filed with the Comptroller General through the Accounting Department.

Here is Rice

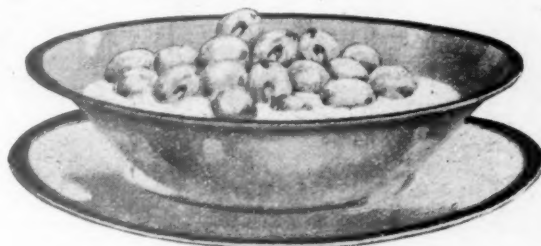

*Puffed to airy, flaky morsels
The most welcome morning dainty*

Quaker Puffed Rice, we think, brings to people more delights than any other cereal served. The grains are puffed to airy globules, crisp and flaky, ready to crush at a touch.

Fearful heat gives these fragile grains a flavor, much like toasted nuts.

So Puffed Rice is a food confection. It is used like nut meats in home candy making and as garnish on ice cream. Mothers crisp and serve with melted butter for after-school delights.

It is not only good, but good for you. The food cells are broken for easy digestion. What breakfast dainty do you know that's half so good as this?

Here is Wheat

*Steam exploded—food cells broken
Puffed to 8 times normal size*

Whole wheat fitted to digest. Whole wheat with its minerals and bran, so essential to young and old.

Serve in every bowl of milk, for luncheons and for suppers. That means supreme food in its ideal form. And these flaky morsels with a nut-like taste make whole wheat ever-welcome. Children revel in it.

Let every day bring this matchless dish.

Semi-Pneumatic Performance Challenges Comparison

Goodrich Semi-Pneumatic Truck Tires have revised old standards of what a truck can do. Their record of performance stands unmatched.

Their success has written a new word into the automotive vocabulary—Semi-Pneumatic. The truck tire with solid rubber where you need it, and maximum air space where you must have it. Most of the working range of both Solids and Pneumatics without the handicaps of either.

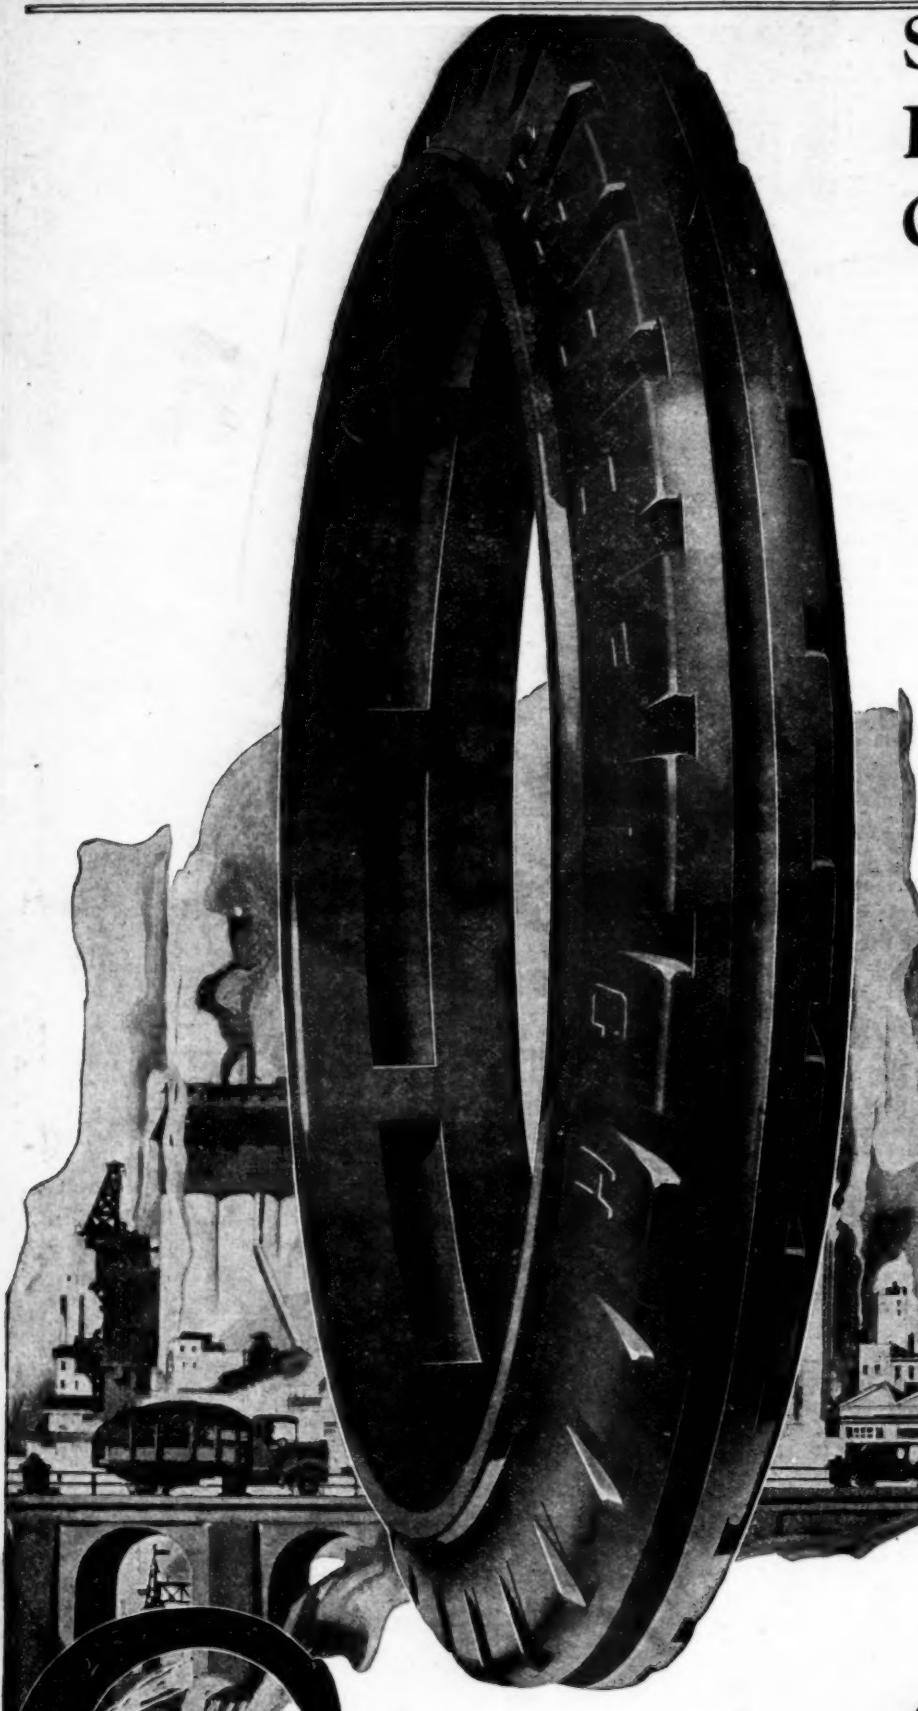

Bear this in mind: If it is not a Goodrich it is not a Semi-Pneumatic. Only Goodrich makes Semi-Pneumatics, and the name stamped on the tire is your guaranty.
